225 MILLION TO BE SAVED UNDER HOOVER'S PLAN

Estimates Made Public in Memorandum Issued at White House

Washington —(AP)—Savings under President Hoover's plan for reducing government expenditures were estimated today in a White House memorandum at from a possible $225,000,000 to $250,000,000 annually.

The memorandum was issued as J. C. Roop, budget director, explained the administration plan to the house economy committee. Hope was abandoned of completing a bill by Tuesday for introduction in the house.

Cuts in departmental appropriations now under discussion, the memorandum said, would result in the discharge of as many as 10,000 government employes but that with a 5-day week these could be retained and between 25,000 and 35,000 part time substitutes employed.

Other arguments for the president's plan were that "it establishes the principle of the 5-day week in the government; maintains the present scale of salaries and would save around $13,000,000 more than the straight pay-cut proposal."

Meanwhile, opposition to the Hoover proposal to furlough government employes without pay was expressed in a tsatement by Senator Borah (R., Idaho). He favors a slash in salaries.

The White House memorandum argued strongly for President Hoover's proposal for a five day week for government employes as against the straight pay cut plan advocated by members of the economy committee. Five points in favor of the administration proposal were listed.

Furlough Proposal

Roop said the furlough reduction plan would be made mandatory for every employe except rural mail carriers, the enlisted forces of the military services, all civil employes receiving $1,200 a year and less and special cases where a suitable substitute cannot be provided.

He added that the allowance of rural mail carriers for vehicle maintenance and all annual leave with pay would be eliminated.

Other provisions in the bill suspend for one year all automatic and administrative promotions, the filling of vacancies, except necessary substitutions and key positions, the retirement of superannuated employes permanently, and suspends for one year all increases in travelling and subsistence allowances made in the last six years.

In addition the bill provides for suspension of extra pay for overtime and night service and limits the pay of retired military officers who hold appointive positions.

Estimated Saving

Roop said that from the legislative changes affecting personnel between $75,000,000 and $80,000,000 would be saved in 1933.

In discussing proposed admendments to the World war veterans and pension acts which are estimated to save approximately $80,000,000. Roop said they provide no person having an income of $1,500 (if single) and $3,500 (if married) plus $400 additional for each dependent, shall be entitled to any pay allowance, or pension or free hospitalization except those suffering from combat disability.

Other proposed changes affecting veterans are:

No person receiving free treatment or subsistence in a government hospital or soldiers home would receive more than $20 a month if without dependents, of $75 a month if with dependents, the difference between that and their present allowance to be applied to the support of such home or hospital. Payments in lieu of wages while under examination for claims against the government would be eliminated and all men receiving allowances who enlisted after Nov. 11, 1918, would be placed upon the non-war connected disability basis.

Emergency officers hereafter would be required to show six months service prior to Nov. 11, 1918 and war-connected disability before receiving the benefits of the Emergency Officers' act.

Suits Against U. S.

The procedure in suits against the government would be modified to require review of veterans claims upon the basis of evidence before the administration.

Borah's Stand

"I favor reduction of salaries rather than the enforced furlough," Borah said in a statement. He has conveyed his views to the house economy committee.

Although favoring reductions of salaries, Borah indicated he did not want to cut salaries as low as $1,000 as proposed by the house committee.

"I am not in favor of going to the lowest salaries," Borah said. "I haven't concluded myself yet as to where we should start but manifestly not on the lower salaries.

"I very much prefer to make a heavier reduction on the high salaries than to make any reduction at all on the very low salaries."

Against New Cash Issue To Pay Bonus

Owen D. Young Favors Increase but Not by Printing Currency

Washington—(AP)—Owen D. Young today telegraphed Representative Patman (D., Tex.), that while favoring an increase in money volume he does not consider printing currency to cash the soldiers' bonus a "sound and helpful" method.

Young's telegram, in reply to one from Patman said:

"Sympathetic as I have always been toward prepayment of adjusted service certificates to meet the needs of veterans, I believe now that it is impossible to increase the budget of the United States by $2,000,000,000 to meet such payment and that an attempt to do so would be injurious to the general welfare.

"While I believe that an increase in our money volume which includes bank credit as well as currency is essential to increase our commodity prices and therefore highly desirable, I do not think that the printing of money and the distribution of it in payment of service certificates is the sound and helpful way to increase our money volume."

Patman, who is leading the fight for immediate cash payment of the $2,400,000,000 bonus said he considered Young's telegram favorable to the cause.

MARYLAND GIRL IS REPORTED KIDNAPED

Family of Missing Girl Refuses to Give Details to Authorities

Wilmington, Del. — (AP) —Authorities sought today to solve a reported kidnaping, but they had no information as to its details, no access to the clues, such as a note reported to have been received by the victim's family, and in fact no confirmation that there had been a kidnaping.

They were looking for nine-year-old Hilda Brodsky, daughter of a well-to-do hosiery manufacturer. She set out for a public school three blocks from her home yesterday and failed to arrive there.

Friends of the family said she was kidnaped for ransom, that her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brodsky, had received an unsigned special delivery letter mailed in Wilmington yesterday noon which read:

"We have kidnaped your child. If you notify the police or the newspapers we will kill the child. Otherwise await further instructions."

The persons who volunteered this information would say nothing more. The Brodskys refused to see police or other inquirers.

Authorities kept a night-long vigil over trains and automobiles without result and Mayor Frank Sparks called a conference of police officials to consider further steps.

LET CONTRACTS FOR ADDITION TO INSTITUTE

Immel Construction Co., Fond du Lac, to Erect College Building

The Immel Construction Co., Fond du Lac, has been awarded the general contract, and A. H. Angermeyer, Neenah, the heating, ventilating, and plumbing contract, for the J. A. Kimberly Memorial Library at the Institute of Paper Chemistry, according to Dr. Henry M. Wriston, director of the Institute and president of Lawrence college.

Work will begin at once, Dr. Wriston said, in order to have the structure ready for dedication at the opening of the fall term in September. The first Institute building valued at more than $250,000 with equipment was dedicated at the opening of the fall term in September. The first Institute building, valued at more than $250,000 with equipment, was dedicated at the matriculation day exercises at Lawrence last September.

Chester H. Walcott, Chicago, is architect for the Kimberly Memorial. It is the result of a $100,000 gift by J. C. Kimberly, whose father was one of the first students to enroll at Lawrence college and was later a pioneer paper manufacturer in the Fox river valley.

It is planned to use the new structure as the main administration building of the Institute, and it will be joined to the present building by an enclosed passage at the level of the first floor. The Memorial is to be 78 feet long by 41 feet wide and will include two stories and a basement. It is of colonial architectural design and is to be built of Lannon stone. A high pillared porch, a cupola with a clock, and a slanting roof will help differentiate the new structure from the present buildinig.

The main floor is to include a spacious reading room, measuring 38 feet by 31 feet, a recreational reading room, a librarian's office, and a stock room. Interior decorating on this floor will be carried out in antique pine paneling.

The office of Dr. Ben Rowland, as well as his personal research laboratory, will be included on the second floor. This floor will also include a large student laboratory for microscopic work, spacious student laboratory for the study of colloids, and two additional research laboratories and conference rooms.

The basement will contain two optical dark rooms, a photographic dark room, a large optics laboratory, a research reading room, and a librarian work room.

The space made vacant in the present building by transferring the library and the offices of Dr. Rowland to the new structure is to be converted into classrooms, research laboratories and offices.

Orbison and Orbison, Appleton have been selected as the local supervisors and engineers.

WILL TRY TO REMOVE TARIFFS FROM BILL

Washington—(AP)— Notice that an effort would be made to strike all tariffs from the new revenue bill came today from Senator Hull (D., Tenn.)

He threatened to make the motion immediately in the senate finance committee when Chairman Smoot objected to his continued questioning of a witness protesting against an oil tariff, but withheld the motion when allowed to go ahead with his questioning.

The Tennessee senator told newspapermen, however, he would press the motion to a vote in committee after the hearings are concluded.

Witnesses said the tax on oil imports would cost the government more in the form of increased prices for oil it consumes than would be collected in revenue.

NO STRANGERS TO TAKE EXAMINATIONS AT U. OF CHICAGO

Chicago —(AP)— The University of Chicago is taking steps to see that no strangers slip in and take the examinations in June.

It was announced yesterday that all students who wish to take the tests will have to supply photographs of themselves in advance.

It's to prevent strangers who have paid no tuition, from intruding," said George A. Works university examiner.

There were some students, however, who ventured the opinion the photographic idea was intended to prevent them from "taking the exams by proxy."

HOLD SUSPECT IN BANK HOLDUP CASE

Arrested Man Accused of Helping Dispose of Stolen Bonds

Shenandoah, Iowa —(AP)—Wanted by federal authorities at Sioux City, Iowa, as a suspected member of a group charged with disposing of bonds valued at $17,500 stolen in a bank robbery at Gorham, Kas., last October, George Reed was arrested at his home here last night and will be returned to Sioux City.

Harry Cooper, divisional secret service chief at Omaha, who made the arrest, questioned Reed concerning the forged signature of John Donovan, Russell, Kas., farmer, on government bonds valued at $10,000 which were used at Sioux City as collateral for a $7,000 loan.

Reed denied forging Donovan's signature, Cooper said, but admitted associating with three Sioux City men now under arrest in connection disposal of the bonds taken in the Gorham robbery. He is a brother-in-law of Frank Beudon of Sioux City and Omaha. Nee who is being sought as the alleged leader of the group which used the bonds as collateral for two loans.

The three already under arrest at Sioux City are J. H. Keefe 41 prominent contractor; Frank A. Hellmore 56, former banker and now an assistant national bank receiver and Dale Koon, 45, Sioux City stock and bond salesman.

FELON KILLED IN PRISON RIOT

Three Persons Wounded in Outbreak in Canadian Penitentiary

Winnipeg, Man.—(AP)—One prisoner was killed and two others were wounded in the first serious riot in the history of Stoney Mountain penitentiary late yesterday, Warden William Meighen announced today. Chief Keeper Thomas Clayton also was injured.

Mike Bihun, a convicted bank robber, was shot in the chest and killed in the prison yard by guards stationed on the prison wall. Thomas Jones and William Corda, charged by prison officials with having been the leaders in the uprising, were wounded in the legs by bullets from the guns of guards.

The warden said the killing of Bihun was accidental and the man had taken no part in the disturbance. He had been confined in a cell for several days for violation of the prison rules and was struck by a bullet which ricocheted from a stone in the prison yard.

The two wounded prisoners, Jones and Gorda, attacked two guards, Chief Keeper Clayton and Alfred Fisher, in the prison yard. They struck the guards with stone hammers. The disturbance was quickly quelled when other guards, armed with rifles and posted on the prison walls opened fire.

Jones, whose home is at Fort William, was taken to Stoney Mountain recently to complete a three-year sentence for receiving stolen goods.

BULLETINS

Columbus, Ohio—(AP)—Preliminary reports from investigators of the state office building explosion, late today were that the blast was caused by "gas of some sort" and that the structural steel frame of the $6,000,000 structure had not been damaged seriously.

Washington—(AP)—The senate elections committee decided today that John H. Bankhead was entitled to his seat as Alabama's Democratic senator.

Three Kreuger Associates Under Arrest In Sweden

Stockholm—(AP)—Three men alleged to have been connected with the operations of the Kreuger interests were under arrest today after new developments in the investigation of the affairs of the late Swedish match king who committed suicide in Paris March 12.

Another important development in the inquiry was a report that a large amount of forged Italian government bonds had been found in Mr. Kreuger's effects.

The three arrested men are Carl Lange, a director of the Garanta company of Amsterdam, Sven Huldt of the Nederlanska bank for Scandinavian commerce and a man named Victor Holm, described as a director, whose connection with the Kreuger interests was not explained.

They were charged with having falsified a balance sheet and profit and loss account in order to give the impression that the position of the Kreuger companies was much better than it actually was.

They were charged further with assisting Kreuger to manipulate accounts and of acting as [illegible] obscure companies formed for the purpose of making possible fraudulent transfers between the books of the various concerns, concealing the real Kreuger position.

These developments were brought out by the inquiry into the Kreuger affairs since the match king's suicide. The investigation had [illegible] revealed whether any use was made of the forged Italian bonds.

The auditors' report said the irregularities began in 1925. According to the charges against the three men arrested, the Garanta company of Amsterdam, of which Carl Lange was a director was acquired in 1927 and the books showed complicated transfers among the Garanta, the Swedish Match company and other concerns.

It was also revealed that Kreuger and Toll had issued shares and debentures in excess of $211,000,000 since 1925 and that in the same period the Swedish Match company had issued $107,000,000 and the International Match corporation $38,000,000.

G. O. P. LEADERS PICK OFFICIALS FOR CONVENTION

Senator Dickinson of Iowa, Is Temporary Chairman and Keynoter

Chicago—(AP)—Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa, was selected temporary chairman of the Republican national convention by the arrangements committee of the party today. He will deliver the keynote address.

With a slate of candidates for important convention posts apparently agreed upon, the announcement of Senator Dickinson's selection was made by Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio, chairman of the committee, a few minutes after the session started in the Congress hotel.

Lafayette B. Gleason of New York was designated secretary of the convention. Other convention officials appointed at the same time were Parliamentarian, James Francis Burke of Pittsburgh, assistant parliamentarian, Lehr Fess of Ohio, Sergeant-at-arms, Everett Sanders of Indiana; chief doorkeeper, Col. Glenn Haynes of Iowa; assistant doorkeeper, J. N. Johnston of Kansas.

Snell May Be Chairman

As the arrangements committee went into session, it had not been definitely decided whether a recommendation for permanent chairman of the June 14 convention would be made.

For that post, Congressman Bertrand H. Snell of New York, Republican floor leader in the house, has been advanced.

With a mass of detail incident to the convention to be passed upon by the committee, the meeting swung into action with dispatch and harmony. All preliminary detail as to seating, press arrangements, delegate placement and housing facilities was presented by Ralph E. Williams of Oregon, who has been in Chicago for the last two months in charge of arrangements. Little, if any discussion, was expected over approval of these plans.

A proposal to designate Chicago as national headquarters for the campaign, after the convention, may be brought before the committee, this was brought out in the discussions of committeemen and committee women in attendance today.

Adoption of such a plan would mean that the general direction of the campaign would be from Chicago, with the eastern and Pacific seaboards subordinate. Western headquarters always have been located in Chicago, with the general direction in the east.

Today's meeting is a one-day affair. Republican leaders in attendance will leave for their homes tonight.

GLASS BANK BILL HAS COMMITTEE APPROVAL

Washington—(AP)— The senate banking committee today approved the Glass banking reform bill. The measure, directed at curbing the use of federal facilities for speculation, received almost unanimous approval in its modified form.

A contest arose over the provision to allow national banks to have branch banks regardless of state prohibitory laws against branch banking. The provision was retained in the measure although some members reserved the right to oppose it on the floor.

The bill sponsored by Senator Glass (D., Va.) was modified to meet some objections of the federal reserve board and in its present form is expected to receive Republican support.

Six Persons Die In Bronx Fire Tragedy

Disaster Second of Kind in Week in New York Tenement Region

New York —(AP)— Fire, sweeping through a Bronx tenement in which many families slept, killed two adults and four children today.

It was the second tragic tenement fire of the week. A mother and five children died when fire trapped them in their fifth floor quarters Wednesday evening.

Those burned to death today were Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dombroff, their 12-year-old twin sons, Jacob and Joseph, Edith Weinstein, 7, and Philip Weinstein, 10.

The Dombroffs were fighting to escape when death overtook them. Their bodies were found in the third floor hallway of the four-story structure. Three other children in the family escaped without injury.

The two Weinstein children were trapped in their apartment after their father, Benjamin Weinstein, had led his wife and two other children to safety through smoke-choked halls.

Rescued by firemen and by patrolmen who suffered severe burns in dragging them out, the little girl succumbed several hours later in a hospital.

Combustion in old paint materials stored in the basement was suspected as the source of the fire. It licked through the building quickly. Max Himmelstein, chauffeur, running on floors so hot they burned his feet, helped rouse sleeping tenants, who fled in night clothes.

ORGANIZED LABOR HITS WILKERSON

All Senators Receive Plea for Vote Against His Confirmation

Washington—(AP)— Organized labor's campaign against promoting Judge James H. Wilkerson of Chicago to the circuit bench was carried to every senator today in a telegraphic appeal that they vote against his confirmation.

Senators Cutting (R., N. M.), Ashurst (D., Ariz.) and several other senators disclosed they had received the messages which were signed by a number of officials of various railway labor organizations.

The telegram cited the resolution of the railway unions, opposing Wilkerson, whose confirmation has been recommended by a senate judiciary sub-committee by a 3 to 2 vote.

The telegram said.

"His service as United States judge has shown Judge Wilkerson's clear antagonism to the legitimate exercise of the rights of the wage earners to organize and act together for the protection of their common interests.

"Also that he has issued sweeping injunctions without notice depriving workers of rights confirmed by federal law.

"He has shown by intemperate and unjustified criticisms of labor organizations and prejudice and class conscious bias which unfits him for promotion to higher judicial authority.

"We therefore earnestly urge on behalf of the organized railway workers of the United States and in fairness to all organized labor that you use your vote and influence to prevent the confirmation of the appointment of Judge Wilkerson to the United States Circuit Court of appeals."

2 BROTHERS ARE REUNITED AFTER 16-YEAR SEARCH

Minneapolis, Minn. —(AP)— Two brothers, one of whom lives in Wausau, Wis., were reunited today, ending a 16-year search.

Martin Tell decided to leave here 16 years ago. He wrote his new address in pencil on the wall of a tire repair shop for his brother, Joseph. When Joseph returned to Minneapolis the address was no longer legible.

Joseph started a search for Martin. Finally he found a man who had heard the missing brother mention a town that sounded like Wausau. Sheriff John Wall enlisted in the search, wrote authorities at Wausau, Wis., and from them it was learned yesterday that Martin was operating a garage at Mosinee.

INSANITY PLEA TO BE MADE BY NAVAL OFFICER

Defense Attorney Fixes Guilt at Trial for Slaying of Kahahawai

Honolulu—(AP)—Clarence Darrow, defense attorney, announced in court today that Lieutenant Thomas H. Massie, one of the four accused of lynching Joseph Kahahawai, killed the young native and that Massie would plead insanity.

Massie again took the stand to tell his story of the killing after police had searched spectators at the trial on the strength of reports that some of them were armed.

With downcast eyes the accused naval officer took up his story at the point where he previously had told of the criminal attack upon his wife, Mrs. Thalia Massie, and how the affair had burned in his mind. Kahahawai was one of five men accused of the attack.

Named by Darrow as the killer, Massie proceeded slowly, haltingly, and looked very small as he sat in the high backed witness chair. He clasped and unclasped his hands nervously and his mouth twisted as he gazed at the floor.

Before him, with one foot resting on a slightly raised platform, the aged Darrow gently drew the story from the witness.

Mrs. Fortescue Weeps

In a front row seat Mrs. Granville Fortescue, Massie's mother-in-law and co-defendant resumed her weeping. The other defendants, Albert O. Jones and E. J. Lord, sat with solemn faces.

At the outset Public Prosecutor John C. Kelley interrupted to ask a clearer statement as to whether Massie was to be declared insane when he shot Kahahawai.

"Yes," said Darrow. "We do not expect Lieutenant Massie to testify he killed Kahahawai but we expect to show he held the gun when the shot was fired from it which killed Kahahawai."

"Then," said Kelley, "we must insist on knowing if the defense contends he is sane now."

No Immediate Ruling

Judge Charles S. Davis held it would not be necessary to rule on that question at once. Kelley then wanted to know what type of insanity would be pleaded.

Darrow objected and said he had made quite a study of this question. "All doctors disagree," said the defense attorney.

Barry S. Ulrich, associate prosecutor, arose and insisted upon knowing "what type of psychosis Massie labored under."

"Have you that information?" the Judge asked Darrow.

"Why, no," said Darrow. "There are so many names it is doubtful even if they would agree on a name."

Judge Davis then asked Darrow if he knew the names of the kinds of insanity.

Dry Law Resubmission Proposals Gaining Force In Politics

TWO WYOMING SENATORS FOR POPULAR VOTE

Bishop Cannon Favors Direct Vote of People in Each State

Washington—(AP)—Activity toward resubmission of the 18th amendment showed itself today an increasing factor in the political preparations for the June conventions of the Republican and Democratic parties.

At the capitol, where hearings are in progress looking to an early vote by the senate on resubmission, the two Wyoming senators joined in announcing themselves desirous of placing the prohibition question before the people. Both Kendrick, Democrat, and Carey, Republican, have dry records behind them.

In Richmond, Va., Bishop James Cannon, Jr., one of the most active dry leaders, announced himself in substantial agreement with the "basal features" of the plan advanced by former Gov. Harry F. Byrd at this week's Jefferson day Democratic rally in Washington to make possible a popular vote on prohibition.

Hearing of this, Byrd, said he believed that having extreme drys as well as extreme wets approving his plan, it would be possible to secure adoption quickly of the constitutional change he proposed. In New York the Times quoted John Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, as considering the Byrd plan better than his own proposal for a "home rule" amendment.

Action In New York

The Democratic committee of New York state, by adopting a resolution for repeal of the eighteenth amendment, brought to six the list of state organizations in the party which so far have recorded themselves for repeal or resubmission in their preparations for the Democratic convention. The New York action, said Governor Roosevelt who is now the leading presidential candidate, was in keeping with his ideas.

A prediction that the Republican national convention would go on record for repeal was made in Chicago in an interview given by Nicholas Murray Butler, who said he would force a roll call on a resolution to that effect and that there would be no "pussyfooting."

In Bishop Cannon's approval of the Byrd plan were a number of highly important qualifications. He opposed vigorously inclusion in either party platform of a plank recommending it. He objected to singling out the eighteenth amendment for its application, and favored making the direct vote by the people in each state take the place of the present provision for constitutional conventions as an alternative to ratification by the legislatures. Byrd's proposal was for submitting an amendment to the legislatures, which, upon ratification, would provide that future changes to the constitution be submitted direct to the people by congress for a vote at a date when no other elections would be held, the vote to be counted by state, and ratification being (as at present) by three-fourths of the state.

Says It's Up to Hoover

Bishop Cannon at the same time said responsibility will rest on President Hoover for whatever prohibition action is taken by the Republican convention. He expounded these views in an address before the State Anti-Saloon league convention, and expanded them to discuss the possibility of both parties adopting planks for resubmission or repeal.

He hinted at a third party movement in that event.

The declaration of the Wyoming senators was brief:

"We are for resubmission of the prohibition question to the people of the several states. We are unalterably opposed to a return to the saloon with its attendant evils. We would consider favorably a plan of federal conrol and regulation of the liquor traffic under which the rights of the dry states would be fully protected."

Kendrick has voted for every prohibition measure including the eighteenth amendment. Carey, elected governor in 1918 on a dry platform, favored a referendum in 1930 when running for the senate.

Democratic state conventions or committees which have expressed themselves for a change or a new vote on prohibition include with New York, Iowa, Maine, Michigan, Minnesota and Washington. Of the other states holding such meetings, Arkansas Louisiana, Kentucky and Oklahoma ignored the question: Missouri defeated an anti-prohibition resolution and Georgia declared flatly for enforcement of all laws.

For the Republicans only Missouri acted for a change, calling upon congress to obtain a national convention to deal with prohibition and nothing else. The Connecticut delegations was wet but no platform instructions were given. Florida, Georgia, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, New York, Virginia and New Mexico, ignored the question: Maine registered opposition to repeal and North Carolina went on record for retention of prohibition.

FAILS TO COLLECT DAMAGES BECAUSE PUSSY CAME BACK

Fond du Lac—(AP)—The wanderings of Miss Anne McLean's cat resulted in no award of damages for her.

Yesterday Municipal Judge H. M. Fellenz denied her petition for damages against Dr. F. E. Schneider, a veterinary. The animal escaped from Schneider after Miss McLean had taken it to him for treatment. The cat was missing 22 days.

Miss McLean claimed she spent about $25 trying to find her pet and blamed negligence of the doctor for its escape.

"The cat is now at the home of the plaintiff none the worse for its experience in the veterinary's office or for the life it led while away from home," said the judge in giving his decision.

CALL HEARING ON RATES FOR BERRIES

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)

Washington—Opponents and proponents of a proposed 10 per cent increase in express rates on all kinds of berries, shipped to Wisconsin from various southern and western states will be heard in Memphis, Tenn., on May 16, the Interstate Commerce Commission has announced.

In February, the Railway Express Agency and South Eastern Express Co. petitioned the I. C. C. to so increase berry express rates, stating that in comparison with rates on berries in freight transportation, the express rates are non-compensatory and unreasonably low. This petition was never made public and the press' first information of the pending case came with the announcement of the hearing.

In the silent interim, much correspondence including protests from fruit shippers and from southern Congressmen and Senators has been received by the Commission.

The increase, if allowed, would increase rates on berries shipped from Alabama, Arkansas, Colorado, Illinois, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Texas, to Wisconsin, the District of Columbia and 34 other states.

The May 16 hearing will be held before Examiner Taylor in the Hotel Gayoso.

Dr. Colton will be the principal speaker at a union church service and public meeting at First Methodist Episcopal church at 7:30 Sunday evening.

GASKINS GIVES TALK ON DEPORTMENT STUDY

His subject for tonight's address will be "Life's Coronations." At regular services at 10:45 Sunday morning he will speak on the subject, "In Quest of the Ideal" and at the meeting at 8 o'clock Sunday evening will discuss, "The Finger of God."

Commercial-st, biting him in the right and left leg and right arm. The teeth of the animal did not penetrate the skin, but the limbs were bruised, according to police officers who investigated.

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

THE JEFFERSON DAY RALLY

Governor Roosevelt's decision to absent himself from the Jefferson Day rally of the Democrats showed how well he recognizes that his own candidacy tends to divide rather than to unite the party. Governor Roosevelt would not have been at ease in the gathering at Washington on Wednesday night. He would have found himself in a company of seasoned Democratic leaders who may have to accept him as their candidate but certainly would rather not have him if they could unite on some one else. Governor Roosevelt's absence was an acknowledgment of the division which ex-Governor Smith's challenge to him emphasized so sharply.

The cause of this division is the realization by Democratic leaders that the Roosevelt candidacy is causing essentially the same alignment as the candidacies of Bryan and McAdoo. They see that that means a certain loss of strength in the whole region from Massachusetts to Illinois. For this territory is normally Republican, and if anything can keep it Republican in 1932, it will be a Democratic candidate who talks as Governor Roosevelt talked on the radio the other night.

Whether the Democratic opposition to Governor Roosevelt can organize itself and whether it will risk an open quarrel over his nomination, it is still too early to judge. Much will depend upon the Massachusetts primaries at the end of this month and upon ex-Governor Smith's ability to make at least three thing clear to the Democrats: first, that he is not fighting Governor Roosevelt in order to seize the nomination for himself; second, that in fighting Governor Roosevelt he represents the considered opinion of the responsible and informed Democrats who best know his record that Governor Roosevelt does not have a sufficiently able mind nor a sufficiently strong character to be entrusted with national leadership at this time; and third, that the nomination of Governor Roosevelt will cause such serious disaffection in pivotal states as to diminish the chances of victory.

When one turns from personalities to issues there was much that was genuinely encouraging in the Jefferson Day speeches. Although it could hardly be said that a coherent program was made visible, it is fair to say that in all the main speeches, in Mr. Baker's fine address at the tomb of Wilson, in Al Smith's own speech, in Mr. Cox's and Mr. Ritchie's and Senator Robinson's speeches, there was a common note of understanding that recovery here cannot be brought about by local magic.

If these speeches represent the real drift of Democratic opinion the party is headed toward a policy of seeking to revive trade by the only method by which it can be revived: by negotiations as to debts and tariffs and commercial policy. The interesting aspect of ex-Governor Smith's proposal on the debts lies in the fact that he recognizes in a true perspective how much more important it is to have international trade than to preserve the intergovernmental debts. An even more considered view of the matter was presented by Senator Robinson, who made the very important point that we are failing to see that "any readjustments which can be acceptable to the United States must fairly take into account and safeguard the interests of our people, both as taxpayers and as participants in world commerce."

An intelligible and workable policy can be worked out on that premise. For it is now clear that we have arrived at the point where the destruction of our exporting industries and of our creditor position has gone so far that if the torn fabric is to be restored, the United States will have to undertake negotiations looking toward farreaching reciprocal agreements on tariffs, and credits, and debts and gold.

It is genuinely encouraging to learn that the minds of Democratic leaders are turned in this direction.

WANT DEFENSE TO DESIGNATE ACTUAL SLAYER

Prosecution Demands Immediate Action in Honolulu Trial

Honolulu—(AP)—Immediate fulfillment of a defense promise to name one of the four accused persons as the slayer of Joseph Kahahawai was sought by the prosecution in the lynching case here today.

Exclusion of testimony relating to the attack upon Mrs. Thalia Massie, wife of one and daughter of another of the defendants, with which Kahahawai and four others was charged, also was sought by the prosecution.

Before Thomas H. Massie resumes the witness stand to continue his story, thus far principally relating to the attack on his wife, attorneys prepared to argue in chambers the admissability of testimony along that line.

Clarence Darrow, chief defense counsel, whose illness halted the trial yesterday, announced last night he was "much better" and would be ready in court today.

George S. Leisure, defense associate, said Darrow had been attacked by indigestion, similar to the ailment which seized him upon his arrival here. Lieut. Comm. J. E. Porter, navy physician who examined Darrow, said the noted lawyer was "just a little bit upset" but would be on hand.

Prosecutor John C. Kelley announced he would seek to have Darrow tell the court specifically, before going further with defense testimony, just which one of the defendants would admit firing the fatal shot and plead insanity.

Testifying of the criminal assault upon Mrs. Massie, the young naval officer previously had said the affair preyed upon his mind. The defense indicated Massie would shoulder responsibility for the actual killing and would raise the insanity issue, but Darrow did not specifically name the lieutenant in this connection.

Would Test Sanity

Kelley said he wanted the defense to say whether Massie would admit the killing, so that it could be determined at once whether the navy officer now is sane or insane.

"An insane man cannot testify," Kelley said.

The defense broadened the visible scope of its activities by summoning six witnesses in addition to the two Los Angeles alienists previously called.

The new witnesses are:

Eugene H. Beebe, attorney at one time retained by the Honolulu Chamber of Commerce to assist in prosecuting the five men accused of the Massie assault. Beebe later was dismissed.

Dr. Paul Withington, who performed an operation on Mrs. Massie after the attack.

Beatrice Makamura, Mrs. Massie's maid.

Samuel G Stewart, retired army captain and friend of the Massies.

Dr. Irving Blom, last previous tenant of the house occupied by Mrs. Granville Fortescue, a co-defendant, and the mother of Mrs. Massie. The prosecution charged Kahahawai was killed in Mrs. Fortescue's home.

Major Gordon Ross, head of the territorial police.

Dr. James Orbison and Dr. Edward Huntington Williams are the alienists called by Darrow.

UTILITIES CASE WON'T AFFECT BADGER FIRMS

Wisconsin Investors in Subsidiaries Won't Lose Lilienthal Says

Chicago—(AP)—Receivership of three more Insull utility holding companies was asked in United States District court today.

Petitions were filed asking appointment of a receiver for the Insull Utility Investments, Inc., corporation Securities company of Chicago, and the Mississippi Valley Utilities Investment company.

Madison—(AP)—The insolvency of Middle West Utilities company should not adversely affect the investors in the firm's subsidiaries in Wisconsin, David E. Lilienthal of the Wisconsin Public Service commission, said today.

The commissioner expressed the opinion that the commission will refuse to permit the receiver of the Middle West Utilities company to use assets of subsidiary public utilities in Wisconsin for the benefit of the insolvent holding company.

Use of the assets will be blocked, he said, whether by way of intercompany borrowings or by the slighting of depreciation reserves. The commission successfully took this stand recently in the case of the Wisconsin Hyro-Electric company when its holding company became insolvent, he said.

The Wisconsin Power and Light company and the Lake Superior District power company are two subsidiaries of Middle West Utilities in Wisconsin.

"For a number of months," Commissioner Lilienthal said, "it has been apparent that the Middle West Utilities company was on unsound ground and we have, therefore, taken the utmost precautions to conserve the assets of the Wisconsin company so that the consumers in this state and investors in properties located in this state would be protected as well as possible.

In Good Position

"As a result there is now virtually nothing due the Wisconsin Power and Light company from the Middle West company or its immediate parent, North West Utilities company. Neither does the Wisconsin Power and Light company owe the Middle West Utilities company or the North West Utilities company any substantial sums."

In addition to protecting the local property in the matter of borrowings the commission has insisted upon the company's strengthening of depreciation reserves and has sought to prevent the payment of dividends on common stock to the holding company when a conservation of the cash position of the company was desirable, the commissioner added.

"I am confident that the commission will not permit the payment of dividends on the common stock to be made to the receivers under present conditions but will insist that the money that might possibly go to such payments be used to build up depreciation and other reserves, thus protecting consumers and bondholders and preferred stockholders, of which there are many thousands in Wisconsin," Commissioned Lilienthal said.

"This effort of this will be to increase the cushion of reserves and strengthen the position of the bond and preferred stockholders at the same time making sure that there will be depreciation reserves to meet the need for replacements as they arise. There have been no payments of dividens during 1932 by the Wisconsin Power and Light company, and I am certain that the commission will not permit such payments under present conditions."

WATCH IMPORTANT CLUE IN MURDER OF ILLINOIS MAN

Havana, Ill.— (AP)—A watch that ticked on in a dead man's pocket although submerged in Patterson bay may help solve what the police theorize was the robbery and slaying of James Palmer, 60-year-old Mason City, Ill., contractor, who had been missing for two weeks.

Waters of the bay, which adjoins the Illinois river here, yielded the contractor's body yesterday. Cuts and bruises about the head, investigators said, indicated he had been slain, with robbery the apparent motive, and thrown into the bay.

Palmer left home two weeks ago to withdraw bank funds and collect some insurance money. There was no money in his clothing when he was found but surprised officials came upon the running watch. They said they considered this clue important as it indicated death was recent.

30-40 PER CENT OF FAMILY LIVING IS SECURED ON FARMS

Detailed Study of 900 Badger Families Made by Agricultural College

Madison —(AP)— The average Wisconsin farm furnishes from 30 to 40 per cent of the farm family living directly without expenditure of money, a survey by the state college of agriculture has revealed.

At the present time the family living which is furnished by the farm without direct expenditures of money plays an important part in the life of farmers and their families in view of the depressed price level of farm commodities.

To discover the significance of the farm's direct contribution to farm living, the college of agriculture in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Agriculture made a detailed study of 900 Wisconsin farm families representing six major farming areas of the state.

Walworth co represented the dairy area; Green, the cheese and hog area; Dane, the dairy, hog and tobacco area; Portage, the dairy and potato area; Dunn, the western general farming area and Langlade and Sawyer, the settler or cut over area.

The cost or value of family living furnished by the farm in 1929 ranged from $396 per family for Sawyer co to $561 for Green co. The averages for the others were Langlade, $463; Portage $482; Dane $490; Walworth, $525; Dunn $540.

Items furnished by the farm included food, shelter, and fuel. The use of the farm house, figured as rent and charged at 10 per cent of the value of the house, amounted to $82 annually for Sawyer, $155 for Langlade, $189 for Portage; $291 for Dane, $276 for Walworth; $231 for Dunn and $277 for Green. Food, in form of meat, dairy products, eggs, vegetables and fruit, was figured on the basis of what it would have brought if sold. The values for the different counties were:

Sawyer, $248; Langlade, $228; Portage, $218; Dane, $177; Walworth, $231; Dunn $269; and Green, $259. Fuel was valued as follows for the counties in order named: $96, $79, $75, $22, $15, $49 and $25.

The study indicated that farm families secure a fairly constant living in the form of goods furnished by the farm, regardless of the degree of farm business success measured in terms of net income. Approximately one-third of the families which appear to have small incomes that they go in debt for at least some of the goods purchased, use no more goods supplied by the farm than do those families with incomes sufficient to afford some savings, the investigators found.

CONFERENCE HELD IN CEMETERY LEADS TO FOUR ARRESTS

Milwaukee—(AP)—A cemetery, decided Police Sergeant Anton Zarek, is no place for reputable citizens to be holding a conference. As a consequence of his observation, four men were detained by authorities today.

Zarek passed the Wanderer's Rest cemetery yesterday. He saw three men in agitated conversation. He called a squad car and the men were arrested on vagrancy charges.

Police said they found $5,000 in possession of the men. Also they found a tin box containing small bundles of newspaper cut the size of currency and flanked with genuine bills. Authorities suspected the trio might be planning to work a confidence game.

The men gave the names of Carl Piccerelle and Albert Giannini, both of Cleveland, Ohio, and Mike Fabbrocino, Cicero, Ill.

As a result of the arrests, Louis Paradise, Milwaukee grocer, also was arrested and turned over to prohibition officials for investigation when it was learned, police said, that he had an appointment with the men to collect $5,000. Paradise told authorities he was to collect the money for sugar sales made two of the men.

HAT CLUE IN SLAYING OF LA CROSSE CITIZEN

La Crosse— (AP) —A battered hat was regarded by police today as a possible clew to the slayers of James Saltz, 21, filling station attendant.

It was found yesterday in a marsh near the downtown gasoline station in which Saltz's body was discovered Wednesday night, a bullet through the head.

Bloodhounds were brought here from Mauston to aid in the search for the slayers, but proved useless since the territory near the filling station had been tracked over by the curious.

Authorities said they were certain two persons participated in the hold up and slaying. They found witnesses who said they saw two men go into the filling station about the time of the killing.

Week's Program To Mark Celebration Of City's Diamond Jubilee

COLONIAL BALL SCHEDULED FOR CLOSING EVENT

Appleton Will Dress Up Streets and Stores for Program in May

Appleton is to be transformed into an historical city the first week in May during the joint celebration of the city's diamond jubilee and Washington bicentennial, according to F. N. Belanger, chairman of the official Anniversary committee. Display windows of Appleton merchants will be filled with various historical curios and College-ave is to be decorated in keeping with the occasion.

Opening on Saturday, April 30, with a parade in which from 12 to 15 bands will take part in the district band tournament, the celebration will continue until the following Saturday when the festivities will be concluded with a picturesque Colonial ball, probably at Alexander gymnasium. Members of the orchestra which is to furnish music for the dance will be dressed in Colonial costumes, and many who attend the ball are expected to come in similar dress.

Another feature of the celebration which is expected to bring visitors from throughout the state will be the appearance of John R. Coen, Sterling, Colo., grand exalted ruler of the Elks. Mr. Coen will appear on the program on Thursday, Fraternal day, giving an address at a joint meeting of fraternal organizations and civic clubs at Conway at noon, and at Lawrence Memorial chapel at 2:30 in the afternoon.

Escort to City

Mr. Coen will be met at Watertown by a delegation of Appleton Elks club members, and upon his arrival here will be escorted to his hotel by the Elks band and another large delegation of club members. Many national and state officials of the organization are expected to be in the city to participate in that phase of the program.

Members of various fraternal organizations will participate in a mammoth parade on Thursday evening. Drill teams of the various lodges will participate in the parade, and later in inter-team contests for which prizes are to be awarded, Mr. Belanger stated. In the Thursday evening parade, officials and members of various lodges are expected to appear in the procession in full dress regalia. Various military units, boy scouts and other organizations also will participate in this procession. Floats will be entered in competition by various business places of the city.

Tuesday will be civic day, with various civic organizations in charge of the program. According to preliminary plans outlined at a meeting of the committee in charge yesterday, a joint meeting of various clubs, the Appleton Chamber of Commerce and Junior Chamber of Commerce will be held at which time speakers of national repute will deliver adresses on various historical topics.

School Day Wednesday

City School day will be observed on Wednesday at which time approximately 2,500 pupils will participate in an historical pageant. Whether or not schools will close for the occasion is to be decided later by school officials, Mr. Belanger said.

Hundreds of rural school pupils and farmers will come to Appleton on Friday, Rural Day. Members of various 4-H clubs, women's societies and farm organizations will be here to participate in a program. A large field meet will be held in the morning at Pierce park, followed by pageants and similar programs during the remainder of the day. Banquets will be held in the evening, at which time various pioneers of the county will be guests.

One of the most picturesque chapters of this history making celebration will take place early Saturday with the crowning of a "Festival Queen," after which thousands of people from throughout the city and county will enter into a day of revelry. According to preliminary plans, the details of which will be completed soon, the program will be similar to the Mardi Gras of the south and the various carnivals of the east. Bushels of confetti will be distributed to the merry-makers, and hundreds of floats will parade up and down College-ave.

HITS ADVANCE OF WHITE MEN INTO AFRICA

Civilization Won't Help That Country, Herbert Bradley Declares

Popular conceptions of conditions in Africa were exploded and the advance of white civilization there was decried by Herbert E. Bradley, nationally known explorer, who addressed several hundred persons last night at Lawrence memorial chapel. His appearance here was sponsored by the Kiwanis club. He augmented his talk with slides and several reels of motion pictures.

Mr. Bradley said he has been in Africa on exploration and scientific trips three times. He protested the advances of white civilization into a country where every one is happy, where there are no jails and insane asylums.

Primitive Africa will pass from the face of the earth in ten years time, the speaker said, for the automobile and airplane are rapidly making travel easier, faster and safer, and admitting more of western civilization which, he said, isn't bringing much to the natives.

"The natives can learn nothing in the way of honesty, decency, or the pursuit of happiness from white people or civilized nations," Mr. Bradley said. "Money used to pay the native luggage carriers never was guarded, yet in this civilized country we move money in heavily guarded armored cars protected by heavily armed men.

Yet we send missionaries to these wild countries."

Expeditions such as those he made into Africa carrying something like 200 porters who are paid 2½ cents a day and all are fed for 25 cents a day. The change used to pay the porters on one trip was secured in Brussels, Belgium, he said, and amounted to all the small money the bank had. It takes 30 porters to carry all the necessary supplies for one man on a four months' expedition.

Size Is Enormous

To portray the size of Africa, Mr. Bradley showed a slide on which a map of the United States was superimposed on a map of Africa. The United state occupied an area about the size of the Sahara desert.

The speaker exploded the idea that equatorial Africa is infested with snakes, adding that only a part of the area near the west sea coast has reptiles. And there are more mosquitoes around his cottage in northern Wisconsin than he ever encountered in Africa, he added.

Cold, rather than heat, is the great trouble of the explorers. The days are warm, but the nights are cold and blankets are an absolute necessity.

The motion pictures shown were "shots" of the many things that interested him on his various expeditions, some of which also have been shown in pictures taken by other explorers who followed him.

Some of the more interesting pictures were of sleeping sickness hospitals that have been set up in regions where the tsetse fly exists. The fly bites natives, introduces a parasite that causes the sickness which lasts for years. After many years research the Rockefeller foundation found a cure for the disease and crude hospitals have been set up throughout the region.

They are headed by a white doctor with numerous native internes from among the more intelligent groups. Natives come to the hospitals, blood tests from the backs of the necks are taken by the black internes and others examine the tests under microscopes for the parasite. The white doctors then determine the serum injections to be given and the internes carry out the orders.

The serum brings many cures if the disease is caught in its first stage, a smaller percentage in the second stage and very few in the third stage. In the third stage of the disease the natives sleep their lives away. The last stage is not at all painful, the second stage seldom, but the first stage is painful.

Serum Checks Disease

Scenes at one of the hospitals showed natives in various stages, some thin, and emaciated, others apparently all right while those in the last stage were shown asleep on their feet or on litters.

The serum to combat the disease in part offsets what troubles and misfortune the white man has brought the natives, Mr. Bradley said.

Another interesting series of pictures was of a tribe that binds heads of small children so that as they grow older the heads become long. One picture showed a mother winding her child's head, the baby apparently minding the process not at all. No bad features of the practice have been noted, Mr. Bradley said, except that an abscess often develops at the base of the head and must be lanced.

Gorillas killed by Mr. and Mrs. Bradley were shown in pictures. Rather than being the ferocious animals they are painted, Mr. Bradley found them amiable.

A large international park has been set aside in the gorilla country now, he said, and they cannot be hunted or killed there. One rare picture taken by Mr. Bradley was of two baby gorillas playing in a tree while their mother watched over them.

Pictures of pygmy tribes and cannibals also were shown. The cannibals are very friendly, Mr. Bradley said, adding they saw no wrong in eating each other or their enemies. They seldom killed for any other reason. They have no other kinds of meat.

The fact that lions can be tracked down and killed, but that tigers must be baited, also was mentioned. One reel of pictures taken at Benares, India, with the natives bathing in the Ganges and burning their dead, completed the program.

There also were pictures of Hindu fakirs, a snake charming act and a few maneuvers of a mongoose attacking a snake.

DEMOCRATS TO FACE CLASH IN PARTY RANKS

Roosevelt and Smith So Far Apart That Truce Is Held Unlikely

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1932 by Post Pub. Co.

Washington—There is no escaping the conclusion that confusion reigns in the Democratic ranks as a consequence of Al Smith's implicit denunciation of Gov. Roosevelt's latest utterances.

If there is to be harmony after the Democratic national convention—and the Republicans gleefully hope there will not be—then the two outstanding figures in the Democratic party—Roosevelt and Smith—have already gone in such divergent directions that it is difficult to see how the effects of their cleavage can result in anything but a superficial truce.

The differences between the Roosevelt and Smith philosophy are fundamental—the New York governor is playing to the radical elements in the country and the former New York governor is holding fast to the conservative side, which has recently been reflected in the efforts of Democratic leaders in congress to convince business men that they are not going to upset the economic machinery and the present business system if they obtain possession of all branches of the government.

Gov. Roosevelt has a big lead. It is, however, of bandwagon consistency, or inconsistency, depending on the point of view.

No Real Opposition

Up to now Mr. Roosevelt has had no real opposition because no candidate has taken issue with him on principle. Merely to fight another candidate for the nomination on a personal basis makes little impression on prospective delegates who have their ear to the ground. But the moment there is a split on a fundamental problem, then it becomes a question of what the voters in the final election might think about it, and the making of issues in a pre-convention campaign often has a big influence on the ultimate result.

Mr. Smith is in no position to get the nomination for himself. He bears the handicap of having been badly beaten in 1928. Nor would he get far if he merely wished to eliminate Gov. Roosevelt in order to win the nomination for himself. His greatest power in the present situation is to reduce the Roosevelt strength by a process of attrition, hammering away at him by public speeches and thus causing the Democrats themselves to ponder whether Roosevelt is their strongest candidate. The moment such a doubt is deeply impressed on the rank and file of the party, the more receptive becomes the same group to the consideration of other candidates.

While the race has gone far to date the Roosevelt supporters have a long lead, it is susceptible of disintegration in a long drawn out fight, especially if between now and June some aggressive position is taken on current questions by some of the other candidates.

What the Smith speech here at the Jefferson day luncheon really means is that the fight on Roosevelt has begun in earnest, but that it will not succeed if Al Smith is the only candidate offered as an alternative to the New York governor. The Democrats of the middle west, the far west and the south are for the most part supporting Mr. Roosevelt. The eastern Democrats are divided. Mr. Smith has brought a serious fight to a head. It may mean another deadlocked convention, in which case any compromise candidate, like Newton Baker or Melvin Traylor or Owen D. Young or former Gov. James M. Cox of Ohio, may come out of the mixup as the nominee. But be it noted, the Republicans are happy and will continue so unless there is a miraculous bit of harmony performed after the Democratic national convention.

IDEAL WEATHER ON MENU FOR WEEKEND

Ideal spring weather is forecast for Appleton and vicinity over the weekend, according to the weatherman. Skies will be clear and the mercury is due for a rise. Similar predictions have been forecast over most of the mid dlewest for the next 24 hours, but uncertain weather is on the menu for the lake regions. In that section of the country skies will be cloudy, he says.

Winds are shifting in the north and northeast. At 6 o'clock Saturday morning the mercury registered 32 degrees above zero, and at noon it registered 45 degrees.

Bluefield, W. Va. — As a dodger there's a dog somewhere in the woods who has proved an expert. Policeman New Wilson, assigned to shoot him, tied him to a tree. Bang! bang! went the gun. The dog jumped twice, broke the rope and ran away unhurt. Wilson had only two bullets.

Cary Attacks Hyde Stand On Reclamation Projects

Washington—(AP)—An indirect attack upon Secretary Hyde's opposition to reclamation extension was made today by Senator Carey (R., Wyo.) in an address broadcast under auspices of the National Grange.

Although Carey did not name Hyde in his comment, he said, when asked by newspapermen, that he was referring to the secretary of agriculture.

"I am well aware," said the senator, "that an intensive campaign is being waged against reclamation and I regret that much of it has been inspired by the head of one of the departments of the federal government.

"This official and his subordinates are constantly preaching to the farmers of the country that a further development of reclamation will add to the surplus of agricultural products and is a serious menace to the farmers of the nation.

"But it should be borne in mind that if the western states are to be developed, they must be permitted to make use of the waters of their streams, which waters are their most valuable assets.

"The crops produced by irrigation are as a rule not those which compete with agriculture in other sections of the country."

"Representatives of this same department," Carey also observed, "have stated on several occasions that the solution of the agricultural problem is the doing away with the marginal farmer. Unfortunately, I do not know just what constitutes the marginal farmer.

"He is certainly not the farmer of the west, where the land is productive and where it has not been exhausted by unwise farming methods."

Carey said the farm board "has failed" because surpluses were greater than it could handle, and the basic reason for agricultural troubles "is that we have devised no suitable way for handling the surplus."

He expressed the hope the present congress would be able to enact legislation to help and contended that bills already passed would be of great benefit, to the farmer.

ROOSEVELT FACES HEAVY SCHEDULE

New York Governor Plans Visit in St. Paul Next Monday

St. Paul, Minn.— (AP)— Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, candidate for the Democratic nomination for president, will know what it feels like to be president if he carries out the heavy schedule planned for him on his visit to St. Paul next Monday.

It will be a 16-hour day for the man Minnesota Democratic "regulars" voted to support at the national convention of the party at Chicago in June, and he will be busy from the time of his arrival by train at the Union station at 7 a. m., until his departure late that night.

Governor Roosevelt will deliver an address at a Jefferson Day dinner at about 9 p. m. His subject has not been announced, but it is understood he will discuss national questions and will not confine himself to the economic problems of agriculture but will touch upon them.

Reservations for the dinner have been made from Montana, North and South Dakota, Iowa and Wisconsin.

It will be Governor Roosevelt's first appearance in the Middle West for several years and his first speech except in the East since he became formally candidate for the nomination.

At the hotel where he will be a guest, Governor Roosevelt will occupy a roof bungalow which has housed many famous guests including Col. Charles Lindbergh when he made his tour soon after his solo flight across the Atlantic; former Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York when he visited St. Paul during his 1928 campaign for president, and numerous celebrities of the stage.

While Governor Roosevelt is busy in St. Paul, Mrs. Roosevelt who is to accompany him west, will spend the day in Minneapolis as the guest of a group of Democratic women. She is to rejoin her husband at the dinner and to occupy a place of honor with him.

Admits He Changed Court Records To Save Daughter

Raleigh, N. C.—(AP)—Declaring he could not perjure himself even to save his daughter, John H. Harwood, former state superior court judge, pleaded guilty to a charge of multilating court records in an embezzlement case against her and accepted a sentence of a year in the Wake-co jail.

The daughter, Miss Lola Harwood, at the same time entered a plea of guilty to a charge of embezzling $4,823 state funds while employed by the revenue department, and was sentenced to two years in state's prison.

Harwood brought his sensational climax to the case shortly after the jury had been completed for the joint trial.

Harwood, suspended from the bench a few minutes before his arrest, wept as he told how he had sought to change figures in record books to save his daughter, "the only thing in the world I had to look forward to."

But, he added, he knew he could not make a defense unless he went on the stand. "To carry out my purpose would have meant that I would have to perjure myself. I did wrong. I am glad I had the courage to determine not to go on the stand and swear falsely."

Attorneys said Harwood and his daughter reached their decision at a conference during a court recess yesterday.

The judge said he sought to erase proof of his daughter's guilt from papers to which he was given access by a court order after her indictment.

As the former judge stood before the court to make his explanation, the daughter's sobs sounded through the courtroom, and his wife held a handkerchief to her bowed head.

Miss Harwood's embezzlement was said by defense counsel to have taken place in her effort to recoup 1929 stock market losses.

By submitting to a disdemeanor charge, Harwood escaped trial on several felony counts incorporated in his indictment, and does not lose his citizenship. Being 56 years old, he is expected to spend his time in jail instead of on the roads.

TEETH and Your Health

This is the Twenty-seventh of a series of articles published by the Outagamie Dental Society. Readers are invited to send in their questions. They will be answered by qualified experts of the Dental Society.

Malocclusions of the teeth may be divided into three general classes, namely those cases in which the teeth are irregular, those in which the jaws are in malrelationship, and those in which the jaws are deformed either by lack of development or by overdevelopment.

Those cases coming in the first class of which there is a very large percentage and generally termed by the layman as irregularities of the teeth, are almost invariably the result of acquired causes in early childhood; some of which are diet, habits, children's diseases, accidents, decay and loss of the baby teeth, decay and loss of the permanent teeth, especially the loss of the six-year (first permanent) molars.

The diet should be zealously guarded during early childhood. It is during this period that the foundation is laid for its future health and development. Habits such as finger, thumb and lip-sucking should be corrected immediately, otherwise, the bone in which the teeth are imbedded will likely become deformed, the teeth will become irregular in position and the dental arches changed in form.

The eruptive fevers such as measles, chicken pox and scarlet fever when contracted between the ages of 2 and 5 years, not infrequently interfere with the proper development of the crowns of the permanent teeth which are in various stages of development in the jaws. Accidents in which the baby teeth are broken off, knocked out or driven into the bone against the crypts containing the crowns of the oncoming permanent teeth, may cause the teeth to assume positions of irregularity and should have immediate attention.

One of the most frequent causes of irregularities of the teeth is the decay and premature loss of the baby teeth. The same care should be exercised in keeping these teeth clean and healthy as with the permanent teeth. This will often prevent the development of serious cases of malocculation in the permanent set.

The first permanent molars which erupt at about the sixth year, posterior to, and while the baby teeth are still in the mouth, frequently are neglected until they have decayed beyond repair and have to be extracted. This often may be accounted for by the fact that the parents do not recognize these as permanent teeth.

These teeth are in reality the most important of any in the permanent set, their function being manifold and when lost produce not only unfortunate but most serious results.

By guarding the child's diet, correcting habits, giving immediate attention to accidents keeping the child's mouth and teeth healthy, conserving the first permanent (six year) molars, the parents can assist greatly in the prevention of many of the simple, as well as the more complicated cases of irregularities of the teeth.

HERE'S COMPLETE UNOFFICIAL VOTE IN DELEGATE RACE

Conservatives Win 16 and Progressives 11 Places at G. O. P. Convention

Madison —(AP)— An unofficial total of the complete Republican vote in 71 counties indicated today that the Conservatives will send 16 and the Progressives 11 delegates to the Republican national convention at Chicago.

The unofficial, or adding machine, total of returns submitted to the secretary of state contained some discrepancies, however, which will require an official check to determine the exact results of the election.

The unofficial report showed that the Progressives captured four of the seven seats in the delegate at large race and the Conservatives won 13 of the 29 district delegate contests.

Following is the unofficial vote complete for delegates at large:

LaFollette, Progressive, 165,894; Dammann, Progressive, 159,509; Blaine, Progressive, 153,760; Dahl, Conservative, 137,928; Schneller, Conservative, 137,743; Mead, Conservative, 137,283, and Schneider, Progressive, 136,576 (all elected). Dougherty, Conservative, 132,230; Olson, Progressive, 131,355; Fons, Conservative 130,293; Bading, Conservative, 126,447; Kletzsch, Conservative, 125,836; Gleiss, Progressive, 122,099, and Charbonneau, Conservative, 121,695.

Johnson Wins

The unofficial returns also showed that State Senator John E. Cashman, Denmark, Progressive, had been beaten out in the Eighth district by Winford Johnson of Kiel, a Conservative, giving the Republican regulars both of the Eighth district delegates.

Following are the district delegates which the unofficial returns show elected:

First: George W. Anderson, Kenosha, and Ira Inman, Beloit, Conservatives.

Second: Fred R. Bentley, Madison, and Howard Greene, Genesee Depot, Conservatives.

Third: Charles A. Dittman, LaCrosse, and Ben Marcus, Muscoda, Conservatives.

Fourth: John C. Schafer, Milwaukee, Conservative, and John W. Groschmidt, Milwaukee, Progressive.

Fifth: Ben Gettelman and Frank Klode, Milwaukee Conservatives.

Sixth: Charles Barnard, Oshkosh, and F. W. Krez, Plymouth, Conservatives.

Seventh: Walter A. Graunke, Wausau, and Walter P. Melchoir, New London, Progressives.

Eighth: C. C. Nelson, Appleton, and Winford Johnson, Kiel, Conservatives.

Ninth: Albert J. Connors, Barron, and C. B. Immel, Whitehall, Progressives.

Tenth: Andrew Ekstrom, Superior, and E. J. Gehrmann, Mellen, Progressives.

BLAINE WINS FIGHT FOR USE OF BUTTER

Senate Adopts Amendment Putting Article in Insane Hospital

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent

Washington—Sen. John J. Blaine has won his fight in the Senate for use of butter exclusively on feeding patients of St. Elizabeth's hospital, the federal institution for the insane here.

The Senate has adopted the committee amendment, urged by the Wisconsin senator, prohibiting use of oleomargarine or other butter substitutes in St. Elizabeth's except for cooking purposes.

Meanwhile, the independent offices appropriations bill, as it was passed by the House of Representatives, contains the same provision with regard to old soldiers' homes and veteran's hospitals which he got put in the bill passed last session for the current fiscal year, prohibiting table use of butter substitutes.

The provision in this bill reads:

"Total, Veterans' Administration, $949,287,745: Provided, That no part of this appropriation shall be expended for the purchase of oleomargarine or butter substitutes except for cooking purposes."

Sen. Blaine and his supporters of the "butter bloc" have succeeded in convincing the executive officials of the government handling institutions in which persons are fed that they should use butter, with the important exceptions of the army and the navy. Both vigorously oppose the provision and so far have succeeded in keeping the prohibition against butter substitutes from applying even to army and navy hospitals.

The army and navy appropriation bills for the fiscal year 1933 have not yet been considered by Congress.

Except for the administrative opposition in these two departments, Sen. Blaine's chief opponent has been Sen. Tom Connally of Texas, representing a state in which cottonseed oil is a major product.

MAKE-UP OF STOCK PORTFOLIOS MAKES INTERESTING STUDY

Shows Wide Difference of Opinion Among Responsible Executives

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES
(Copyright, 1932, by Cons. Press)

New York — The make-up of the stock portfolios of investment trusts of the management type makes an interesting study in investment fashion. Trusts of this kind are allowed to sell stocks when they are of the opinion that their prospects have changed for the worse and substitute others. The fixed type of investment trust allows of no change except in certain carefully defined contingencies.

The first point that obtrudes itself in any analysis of these portfolios is the wide differences of opinion among the executives responsible for them. The second feature is the extent of the shifting about that occurs from year to year. A recent compilation of the holdings of fifty companies shows some striking changes at the close of 1931 with the situation twelve months prior.

Arranging the corporations represented in the order of popularity it is found that the proportion of public utilities among the first twenty has increased, ten being included in 1931 against 8 in 1930. Consolidated Gas headed the list in 1931 with American Telephone second whereas the year before that order was reversed. Only one railroad appeared each year and not the same one. Food stocks have risen in favor and steel stocks have declined. One oil was accepted in 1930 but there was none in 1931. One copper was taken in 1931 and none in 1930.

The comparison could be extended to cover the first forty stocks and many interesting situations disclosed but that is unnecessary to the conclusion that there is nothing static in investment if we take the practice of those best fitted by position and experience as a criterion.

The writer is willing to hazard his own opinion that if these trusts were to select common stocks today on the basis of conditions now existing even that first twenty list would be radically altered. It is a reasonably safe assumption that the list selected today would not be entirely satisfactory six months hence.

Audience Psychology Is Always Changing--Horton

BY JESSIE HENDERSON
Copyright, 1932, By Cons. Press

Hollywood —(CPA)— "One trouble with humor is the audience, not the actor," observed Edward Everett Horton today. On the stage as often as he is on the screen, Horton has just completed an hilariously triumphant six weeks at the Hollywood playhouse as the hero of "Springtime For Henry."

While enacting this role in the evening he was likewise working in a new picture during the daytime and rehearsing the lead for his next production at the playhouse. He has to be funny in every one of these characters but it is all in the day's work for Edward Everett Horton to be funny. That's his business, and he takes it seriously.

"The audience changes from year to year," Horton went on to explain. "It changes in psychology. It has a different sense of humor. What made an audience roar with delight 10 years ago won't get a laugh from them now. What rolled them in the aisles 20 years ago bored them in 1922.

Laughs Are Scarce

"For example, the first time I played in a certain comedy there wasn't any difficulty about getting laughs. The piece was decidedly funny. I revived it some years later and even during rehearsals I began to say to myself: 'Now, is that really amusing or isn't it?' Presumably, after years of practice, I was a rather better comedian than when people first saw me. Don't put me down as conceited," he added hastily. "I'm referring to the better technique which inevitably comes from practice.

"Well, people just didn't laugh at my performance as they did in the good old days. I worked my head off but they wouldn't laugh. Their psychology had changed. This is the reason why so many revivals, in pictures and on the stage, are failures. They fail even when the picture or revival is better than the original, simply because the public sense of humor is not the same.

"And that is why humor turns out to be such an indefinite and indefinable thing. You can figure tragedy. You know if a man has a serious love for a girl and the girl is killed, that's tragic. But you never can tell what will be funny. Which, "he concluded with a profound sigh," is the reason why comedians always look full of grief. They are."

BATTLE OVER BUNNY

Portland, Ore — A timid little rabbit was the cause of a ruckus between Fred Willis and his neighbor, Lennie Newcomb. Willis maintained that one of his rabbits had wandered into the Newcomb yard. When he went after it Newcomb ordered him out. Willis picked up a stick and hit Newcomb on the elbow. Police were called to quell the disturbance.

A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON

If books can persuade men to give up war, world peace ought to be almost secure. The writers of the world, from Barbusse to Remarque, have done all anyone could ask in the way of depicting war for the beastly, horrible affair it really is.

To this library of realism there is added, now, the crowning shocker of them all—"The Horror of It," a little book edited by Frederick A. Barber and subtitled, "Camera Records of War's Gruesome Scenes."

* * *

There are no words in the language strong enough to tell how awful war can be; but where language fails, the camera can come close to succeeding. If you need any further persuasion that war is too ghastly a thing for civilized nations to indulge in any longer, I invite you to look at the pictures this book contains.

Here we have actual, uncensored battle scenes. The camera tells you, quite clearly, just what hot steel and high explosives can do to sort human flesh. It shows you the obverse side of the medallion which has bright parades and gay flags on the more familiar side.

You must have strong nerves to get through this book, even though the job won't take you 15 minutes. Its exhibits are sickening—and profoundly eloquent.

"The Horror of It" is published by Brewer, Warren & Putnam. It costs $1.50.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

by Ely Culbertson
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

A BIDDING DEFENSE

It cannot be too strongly emphasized that, while bidding should be based upon values held, often, with comparatively weak hands, the only effective defense against opponents' march to the game contract, which may be made, is a defense in the bidding. Consciously, or subconsciously, almost all players are affected by the bids made by their opponents, and nuisance bids, injected even with minimum strength, frequently made difficult the bidding of hands in which one side has sufficient strength to produce game, but so divided that the issue appears doubtful.

In the recent Eastern Contract pair championship one of the hands dealt was the following:

South—Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.

	♠ A 3 ♡ Q J 4 3 ◇ K Q 9 5 ♣ 9 8 2
♠ Q 8 7 2 ♡ A K 10 2 ◇ J 4 ♣ A 7 4	N W E S	♠ K J 4 ♡ 8 5 ◇ A 10 7 3 ♣ Q J 6 5
	♠ 10 9 6 5 ♡ 9 7 6 ◇ 8 6 2 ♣ K 10 3

At the table where Mrs. Culbertson played and held the North hand, the bidding was as follows:

The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	1♡	1NT(1)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—This proved an impassable barrier to the East and West players.

In the play of the hand, through rather faulty defense, although the players were ranked among the world's experts, Mrs. Culbertson made 6 tricks and was thus defeated 1 trick on her contract to make 7.

"I guess you overbid a little," remarked her distinguished opponent.

Let us see!

At another table, where the North player did not appreciate the advantages of a bidding defense, the bidding proceeded as follows:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	1♡	Pass(1)	2◇(2)
Pass	2NT(3)	Pass	3NT(4)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—Holding vulnerable opponents will bid too much.

2—A bad bid. A much sounder bid is two notrump. The hand contains 2½ honor-tricks and with partner's Opening bid, the contract should be made.

3—West rightly shows his Redd values.

4—East now corrects his own bid.

In the play, North, faced with a difficult choice of leads, elected to open the club 9, and West easily made three notrump, winning three Clubs, two hearts, two spades and two diamonds, thus scoring—as the game was Duplicate—a total of 605 points—100 points for the tricks and 500 for the vulnerable game.

We thus have a pertinent answer to the remark of the player at the first table:

"Mrs. Culbertson, although defeated, did not overbid."

TODAY'S POINTER

Many hands present no possibilities of a playing defense at the Contract table, but do have the possibilities of a bidding defense through the use of "nuisance bids."

A RAILROAD TO PLAY WITH

A Philadelphia lawyer recently bought himself a railroad. It is a standard-gauge line that runs from West Denton, Md., to Lewes, Del., has four box cars and a locomotive by way of equipment and it is 41 miles long. He got it at a receiver's sale for $26,000.

After remarking that he intended to run the railroad, at least for the time being, the purchaser added: "I really don't know much about it, but I am reliably informed that it has a locomotive which works."

The newspaper dispatches which told all this did not mention just why the man bought the railroad. But it is pleasant to look at the implications in that statement of his and conclude that he did it irrationally, just by way of yielding to that vague desire that all nourish—the desire to have a railroad all our own to play with.

Railroads, of course, aren't to be spoken of lightly. One might as well yearn for ownership of the United States navy as for ownership of a trunk line railway. But the ordinary citizen goes ahead and yearns anyway.

Every boy, at one time or another, plans to be a railroad engineer. He grows up and becomes a real estate salesman, or an orchestra conductor, or a high school principal, instead; but always he retains in his heart a trace of that old affection for puffing engines and shiny rails, and is apt to tell himself, now and then, that being a railroad man must be an interesting life.

This, probably, explains the phenomenal popularity of toy trains at Christmas time. They are bought for boys, of course; but they are bought by grown men, and two-thirds of the time it is dad, and not sonny, who gets the biggest kick out of them. The man who buys such an outfit is getting even with fate. He now owns a railroad, and he can shuttle the cars about and twiddle with the switches at will.

This Philadelphia man has gone the rest of us one better. He owns a real, sure-enough railroad. We don't know just why he bought it, but it's reasonable to think that he did it for the same reason that the rest of us would, if we could—just for the fun of it.

FOREIGN DEBTS AND THE BUDGET

Resumption of foreign debt payments to the United States after the expiration of the moratorium on July 1, 1932, is assumed by the Federal Treasury in its budget estimates for the fiscal year 1933.

These payments, as scheduled, will total a little less than $270,000,000 of which but $50,000,000 applies on principal, the remainder being interest. Most of this amount is due from our four principal allies in the war—Great Britain owing $171,000,000, Belgium $8,450,000, France $60,000,000 and Italy $14,790,000.

The United States government must list these foreign debt payments as estimated receipts in the 1933 budget, otherwise there would be the natural interpretation that it did not expect to receive them, which is not the case. There is no indication that congress, either in its present or anticipated temper, will agree to any extension of the moratorium or to any radical reductions in the foreign debts.

At the same time there is presented the German budget with a complete disregard of further reparation payments. That these payments should cease is a fundamental of future German policy and has been so announced by the moderate Bruening government now continued in power by the re-election of President von Hindenburg. Any other stand taken by a German government doubtless would lead to its early downfall.

Germany's refusal to continue reparation payments may be expected to have sharp repercussions at the Lausanne conference scheduled for next June in view of the fact that the United States has told Europe that it must settle this problem independent of America, which in turn is committed to debt collection.

France especially, has been endeavoring to obtain a tacit understanding on debt readjustments prior to any settlement of the perplexing reparations question, but the present attitude of the United States government is that whatever part of the scheduled $270,000,000 foreign debtors may refuse to pay during the fiscal year 1933, by so much will that year's budget remain unbalanced.

CHINA NOT ENTIRELY BLAMELESS

China cannot escape a liberal measure of responsibility for the present Sino-Japanese difficulties. She has deliberately antagonized foreigners.

One of the main planks in the platform of the Kuomintang party has been anti-foreignism. It is a policy that has been nourished in Kuomintang newspapers, preached by political speakers and even included in official textbooks used in all schools from the primary grades upward.

The extraterritorial treaties and foreign concessions have been blamed for all of China's domestic ills. This has resulted in a studied policy antagonistic to all foreign individuals, firms and governments. The Shanghai District court, for example, has become a travesty as a judicial tribunal. To such an extent was it subject to Chinese political, military and civil interference that foreign litigants despaired of obtaining justice.

For two decades political and military indecencies have been rampant. As a result of civil strife hundreds of thousands of men who were once peaceful peasants turned to banditry and the lives and properties of Chinese and foreigners alike have become unsafe.

America and Europe have been content to adopt a sympathetic attitude, hoping that China would work out of her difficulties but Japan, being her closest neighbor and suffering more in her trade relations due to anti-foreign aggressions, was not so patient.

China has demanded that the League of Nations espouse her cause in its entirety, otherwise she would bitterly reject the findings. She concedes nothing nor listens to any counsel for compromise.

So, the recent statement of Lord Lytton, chairman of the League's Inquiry Commission, was not a surprise to foreigners conversant with the actual situation, though it came as a shock to many Chinese of high repute. His statement was a blunt warning to the effect that "it is not possible for any nation to cultivate hatred and hostility toward other countries and then expect the League of Nations to step in and save it from the consequences of that attitude."

Unquestionably any satisfactory solution to the situation in the Far East is most difficult. Well-informed investigators assert the present trouble is not entirely due to Japan's greed and ambitions. A large measure of responsibility must be laid to the policies of Kuomintang nationalism which have for five years asked for all manner of concessions from abroad without any attempt in return to establish order and peace within China's own boundaries.

SPANISH NEWSPAPERS

Behold the significance of the resolutions of the dictatorship, again in power, insofar as they concern the press:

They make impossible calm discussion of the functions of the historically established powers during the existence of the dictatorship, by virture of Acts. 257 and 259 of the Penal Code, published by Don Galo Ponte. Specifically these articles make grave delinquencies of the following:

Any impugning of the legitimate authority of the King; any unfavorable criticism of his personality, regardless whether this offense can be defined as "injurious, calumnious or menacing; any illusion derogatory to, or finding fault with the acts of the government.

These certainly are unprecedented limitations to the scope and privileges of a newspaper, but this is not all. The judicial authority under the dictatorship has the right during a trial on any of these allegations to suspend publication of the offending journal until the case is decided. Inasmuch as the minimum "suspension" of the indicted periodical is for 30 days according to the provisions of Arts, 19, 90, 93 and 128, "suspension" is only a euphemism in this instance for "suppression." Most papers would find it difficult to resume publication after 30 days of non -existence, and should not thus be burdened with the penalties of their infractions in advance of the sentence. And there is, also, the remote chance of acquittal! But too late!

The crowning infelicity of this situation is that all cases of lese majeste must be brought to the cognizance of the war department. That is to say all the delinquencies listed in Arts 257 and 259 of the Penal Code of Don Galo Ponte come under the jurisdiction of a martial council which has no right to function in any country of good democratic principles except for the maintenance of military discipline.—Madrid (Spain) El Sol

A Lovers Lament

Since they took you away I am lonely,
Since you left me alone here I'm blue.
My days are spent thinking about thee,
Every evening I'm longing for you.

No one knows of the heart breaking sorrow,
I am bearing here day by day.
No one knows of the loss that I suffered
On the day you were taken away.

I am longing, yes longing to hold you
Once more in my loving embrace.
I am hoping each day soon to have you.
No other will e'er fill your place.

No more can my hot lips caress you,
No more your low murmurs I hear.
I cannot be happy without you—
WHEN OH WHEN WILL WE GET BACK GOOD BEER?

Just Folks

By Edgar A. Guest

TALKING IT OVER

Were they so much of comfort after all
That we should even shed one silly tear
For some lost pleasure and the glittering ball
And all the gaudy glamour of the year?
We lived almost as strangers to ourselves
And never knew what books were on our shelves.

The loss has come. What is it we have lost?
For one thing weariness with all its pain;
Some lavish splendor, scarcely worth its cost,
And won the right to be ourselves again.
Tonight we're playing checkers. You and I
Have had enjoyment money didn't buy!

I'm sure the neighbors oftener stop to call,
The youngsters gather here to dance and sing.
What if these rooms we occupy seem small?
More happiness the larger didn't bring.
We've lost the right in luxury to roam,
And found a truer pleasure here at home.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

EXPERIMENTAL MATERIAL URGENTLY REQUIRED TO SETTLE A CONTROVERSY

If I were to call for volunteers I am confident a thousand men, women and children would offer themselves tomorrow morning to undergo experiments to prove whether exposure to cold, wet, sudden changes, drafts and dampness, in the everyday meaning of these conditions, causes any illness or impairs health in any way. Indeed, without any call at all several score of readers have volunteered for just such experiment whenever I may notify them I want them. But, alas, we can't get any forrader that way, for the old-timers who annually or semi-annually warn the public to beware of such exposure craftily decline to define the illness they imply people contract from such cause. They know their pork and beans, these eminent physicians and prominent health commissioners. They're satisfied with the controversy as she is. They stand all kinds of prodding and guying from low bred writers about this diffidence of theirs, but not for anything would one of the old guard be so simple asto commit himself in a definition or even a description of the illness he calls "the common cold."

Another interesting little controversy that bids fair to go on until the oldtimers are all retired or dead is the one about gout. It doesn't do a bit of good for me to shout myself hoarse telling the public there is no such ailment, for my shouting is a week, ephemeral thing, compared with the thousand and one ponderous medical works and the imposing array of distinguished physicians that expatiate learnedly on the subject. They leave no doubt in the student's mind that gout can and still does happen occasionally. They imply that in olden time, at any rate, all the best families had some gout; it was the correct thing for it meant that the sufferer was accustomed to high living and that he did no honest work. But, alas, you can't produce gout that way now. So even if thousands of earnest volunteers were to live high, under my sponsorship, for a year or so I doubt we could convince the old fogies in the medical profession that they're all wrong about it. They intend to go to their graves believing in gout, no matter how many honest doctors confess they've never encountered a genuine case of it.

The idea I had in mind for this talk was to call for a thousand volunteers to undergo a little experiment to settle the rabies controversy. I was going to propose that a thousand men who are heavily in debt to society—say long-term inmates of state and federal prisons—voluntarily expose themselves to a choice collection of rabid dogs. Only 15 per cent of persons bitten by rabid dogs develop any illness in consequence, according to good authorities. I'd undertake to remain at some convenient safe place and give every man bitten immediate first aid — iodin swabbing and a prophylactic dose of tetanus antitoxin. I believe the temporary indignation and annoyance of the man so bitten would be the sum of his sufferings. But if my conception should prove all wrong and several of the men bitten actually developed rabies —well, that would settle the controversy neatly enough.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Eliminating Poor Material

Please advise whether it is worth while to examine high school students by listening to the heart, taking the pulse and measuring the time they can hold the breath, to determine their fitness for activities in athletics such as basketball, track work, etc. These tests cost so much for the class — about 20 cents for each scholar. . . . (W. G.)

Answer—Such tests by a physician should be required in every instance. Much unfit material may be eliminated by such tests. It is a mistake to permit any boy to enter upon athletic training for any contest unless he has been found fairly fit. So the prospective athletes are scholars in your school?

Pterygium

Fifty, wear glasses for near work, eyes inflamed looking and feel as tho there were lint on them. Physician gave me astringent drops and said something about a couple of stitches which I didn't like. . . . . (Mrs. R. A. J.

Answer—The little operation is a minor one, done under local anesthesia, with no more discomfort or risk then you would undergo for the filling of a cavity in a tooth.

Infantile Paralysis

Is there obtainable from the state department of health or elsewhere a serum for infantile paralysis? (C. K.)

Answer—The most effective serum is that of the fresh blood from a donor who has had infantile paralysis and recovered from the immediate illness.

The Tinymites

By Hal Cochran

"OH, goodness! See what you have done," cried Scouty. "You have spoiled our fun. Why did you stick that pin into the big, fat bubble man?

"Just when he was in proper trim you let the air right out of him. Why do you have to do such things? Please tell us, if you can."

Poor Duncy! He just hung his head. But, in a moment, Coppy said, "Why, I think Duncy did just right. The man said we'd be spanked.

"A spanking doesn't feel so good and Duncy did just what I would. Instead of trying to call him down, I think he should be thanked.

"We still can have a lot of fun, despite the thing that Duncy's done. Let's blow some more big bubbles. They are pretty as can be.

"I'll try to blow a little one that's long and skinny. 'Twill be fun. We'll all take turns, but right now, lads, just keep your eyes on me."

Then Coppy dipped the pipe in soap as Duncy shouted. "Well, I hope you blow the biggest we have seen, 'cause you were very kind.

"You took my part and saved me from appearing to be very dumb. Gee! Even if you take my turn at blowing, I won't mind."

The soap suds seemed to be real thick, which made the bubbles come out slick. Wee Coppy blew some little ones and then a big one came.

"Oh! Keep it up!" one Tiny cried. "That is the finest I have spied. If that one goes kerplop, like all the rest, 'twill be a shame."

The bubbles seemed to grow real fast. While wondering how long 'twould last, the Tinies wre surprised to see it leave the pipe and glide.

Right over Duncy's head it dropped. 'Course he was startled when it stopped. "Why, look!' exclaimed brave Scouty. "Little Duncy is inside."

A Bystander In Washington

BY HERBERT LUMMER

Washington — Men are employed around the capitol building in Washington to perform about the most curious sorts of jobs one can imagine.

There's one, for example, who has the title of mace bearer. His duty is to precede the speaker into the house chamber prior to the convening of a session, bearing on his shoulders the mace—an eagle atop a fasces, symbol of authority.

Down in the basement there's an old man who for years has been making gavels for the use of the presiding officers of congress. His job is to see that there is a good supply on hand at all times.

But one of the most peculiar jobs is that of George Jones, the official time-tinkerer of the house of representatives.

Jones keeps 100 clocks wound each week and daily inspects the half-dozen or more electrical contrivances connected with them.

Two Winding Days

Every Monday he winds all the clocks in the house end of the capitol. On Fridays he attends to those in the house office building.

At present Jones' chief concern is the historic middle clock in the house press gallery. That one is his pet, because 50 years ago, when he was a lad of six, his father tinkered with it.

"It was worn out eight years ago," he says a bit sadly. "But I've managed to keep it going up to this last trouble. Now I'm afraid there's no hope. I've ground down and polished all the notches, but it just goes a little while and then stops. It won't stay in mesh."

Persistent

Even white-haired Joe Hanson, for 20 years the gallery handy man, who once helped Jones rescue the old clock from the trash heap, advised him to give it up. Joe pasted a couple of pieces of copy paper across the clock's face—as a death bed watcher would pull up a sheet. But Jones said:

"I'm coming down some morning before Joe gets there and just lift out those works again and give it another try."

Next to his pet in the press gallery, the French clock of white marble and bronze in the ways and means committee room, ranks in Jones' affection.

With coaxing, he says, it keeps almost as good time as it did when James A. Garfield, later President, used it when chairman of the committee.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY WILLIAM GAINES

New York — Benny Leonard crawled into the ring for an ovation between bouts at the Friars' club amateur boxing tournament.

The sleek looking fighter, who retired a champion and came back "to get some of the easy money lying around," made a hit with the actor membership by proving that he's a pretty good yarn spinner. He falls into Jewish dialect to get his laughs.

When Benny was high man at his weight he had the reputation of never letting an opponent muss his hair. But there were times when something more than his hair got mussed.

He told the Friars that the ways of the ring were strange to his father, so he always insisted that the "old man" keep away from the ringside when he was battling.

But on one occasion the sire determined to see his son in action, so he sneaked into the arena and took a seat far away from the ropes. That was one of the times Benny came in for some rough treatment, and here's the way he told about it:

"I went down, and the referee began to count over me, with pointing finger.

"My father got up and yelled: 'Oi, look! Not only do dey knock hem down, but dey should gif hem a lecture.'"

Out of the Shadows

One of this big town's most pathetic characters is a woman who emerges from the shadows only to try to get the ear of some movie director whose presence in the city is made known.

When silents were being produced on a wholesale scale over in Fort Lee, across the Hudson, she came to New York from a distant state. Her ambition was all aglow, but whatever it takes to get ahead in pictures flickered too faintly in her makeup. The best she could get was an occasional assignment as an extra.

Most of the picture makers moved west, but she, for some unknown reason—probably lack of railway fare—stayed here to grow old and go to waste.

In recent years she has put in wraith-like appearances at the casting offices of the two major Eastern studios, the one in Brooklyn and the recently closed Astoria plant. But she has been trying to keep alive the fading dream of going to Hollywood.

Every time the papers announce the arrival of some director from the west coast she tracks him to bid for a hearing. If she finds his lodging place it is only to learn that hotel telephone girls and other employes are instructed to sidetrack persons who obviously would prove only a nuisance to distinguished guests.

A member of the Friars told me she approached Ernst Lubitsch on a crowded sidewalk, but when the director, curious, stopped to listen, her pent-up appeal gushed forth in such a confusion of words that it made no sense.

Haunts Del Ruth

I have seen her twice. The first time was some months ago in the Brooklyn casting office, I remember. Her clothing was shabby. Her thin face, suggesting no earlier beauty, was a mess of caked powder and smeared rouge. Her eyes were strange and her thin lips held apart in an insane smile.

The other evening I saw her the second time. The actor, who knew something of the legend, pointed her out. She was on the sidewalk in front of the hotel where Roy Del Ruth was registered.

Where she lives, and how, is a mystery.

GERMANS ADVANCE

On April 16, 1918, three fresh German divisions were thrown into the battle on the Lys sector in France. After an all-day struggle they stormed Bailleul, Wulverghem and Wytschaete and held the greater part of Messines ridge.

German losses during the day were described as "very severe" by official British bulletins, which pointed out that British soldiers had been withdrawn to previously prepared positions only after hard fighting in which their losses were small compared with that inflicted on the enemy.

The German long range gun again bombarded Paris, killing 16 and wounding 42 persons during the day.

SLUMP SHOULD TEACH LESSON, CLUB ADVISED

Confidence Is Keynote of Trade, Merle Thorpe, Editor Declares

Menasha—That confidence is the keynote of trade and that present economic adversity should teach a definite lesson to individuals and legislators, was the keynote of a talk by Merle Thorpe, editor of "The Nation's Business," before about 175 members and guests at the thirty-fourth annual banquet of the Menasha club in Hotel Menasha Friday evening. As editor of the official publication of the United States Chamber of Commerce, Thorpe is recognized as one of the country's leading authorities on business.

Speaking on "How's Business," Thorpe referred to his subject as affecting the happiness and well being of everyone. The depression he referred to as stupid and over advertised and dwelled particularly on the effects of distrust and suggestion on credit. Exaggerated rumors strike responsive waves thousands of miles away, impairing confidence and credit and adding much to business difficulties. The stock market crash in 1929 was the result, rather than the cause, of the adverse economic conditions, he explained.

Can't Buck Economics

Referring to legislation designed to aid business, Thorpe told how business men have leaned too heavily on the government for work which they could have done better themselves, and explained how economic laws often tear down the artificial barriers set up in restraint of trade. He illustrated the point with an explanation of legislation affecting the rubber and sugar industries.

Time may provide a better perspective of our present ills, as it has already shown that each succeeding major depression has been less severe than the one which preceded it, he pointed out. The original concept of government as an umpire in economic activities has been abandoned almost entirely.

While discussing government, Thorpe told of a number of unnecessary activities in which government is involved, but placed the blame on the individual, because of his indifference, rather than on politics. Many governmental departments have grown disproportionately, and with a gross national income of $60,000,000,000, one fourth of that amount is subject to proposed taxes.

Competition Is Blessing

Thorpe pointed to competition as a blessing and as an essential to growth and said that its distruction would destroy opportunity. Warning against legislative interference, he told how some industries had sold their birthright for governmental regulation.

Changes in business, he explained, are as certain as death and taxes, and in spite of despressions in the past, no course has been outlined for eliminating economic adversity.

George Elwers, president of the club, presided at the banquet and F. J. Sensenbrenner, toastmaster, introduced the speaker. The "Four Nighthawks" of Chicago entertained during the banquet and also performed at the Menasha club rooms where a bridge party for the women was under way during the hours of the banquet program.

The banquet committee consisted of C. A. Fourness, chairman, W. H. Miner, Philip Reimer, G. M. Thompson, and W. A. Rike. At the conclusion of his address, Thorpe was voted an honorary membership in the club.

DESCRIBES FIGHT WHICH RESULTED IN KILLING IN 1902

Bakersville, N. C.—(AP)—A logging camp fight 29 years ago in which George Presnell killed Lewis Buchanan was recounted by the sole surviving witness, at Presnell's trial for murder.

Obediah Butler, 62, of Johnson City, Tenn., who saw the fight as a man of 33, was the witness. Presnell was arrested in Pratherville, Mo., last February.

Butler said the working crew had gathered early the morning of Aug. 28, 1902. He heard harsh words between Presnell and Buchanan.

"Whoever says that is a liar," Butler quoted Buchanan as saying.

"Don't you say that," he said Presnell replied and drew a knife.

"Don't let him kill me, boys," Butler said Buchanan called.

Then, he said, Presnell grabbed Buchanan and slashed at his thigh. Presnell left the scene. Half an hour later Buchanan died.

"I never saw Presnell again until he was brought back here for trial," Butler added.

Presnell went to the mid-west and lived under the name of George Miller. In Oskaloosa, Iowa, he married. Later he moved to Pratherville, Mo. He had left a wife in North Carolina.

A sister came to live in Pratherville and one day in a fit of anger after a quarrel with her brother she told officers he was wanted in North Carolina for murder. He was arrested and brought here for trial.

Virginia Drys Ready To Let Voters Decide Issue

Richmond, Va.—(AP)—The Virginia Anti-Saloon league had adjourned today after its two-day session which closed with the adoption of a resolution expressing a willingness for the prohibition issue to be settled at the polls in a "rational, practical safeguarded constitutional" manner.

The resolutions were in line with the expression of Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, who in addressing the convention said he was in "substantial agreement with the basal features" of the prohibition referendum plan of former Gov. Harry Flood Byrd.

He said he agreed with Mr. Byrd in his "declared opposition to any plan that will permit the people of a particular state to vote that state out of the control of the constitution of the United States while the other states remain under the constitution." He said he saw in the Byrd proposal "a flat rejection of the 'Smith-Raskob plan.'"

The bishop said, however, that he believed the constitutional amendment suggested by Mr. Byrd should go further and make possible a vote on all other amendments as well as the eighteenth.

In sharp disagreement with Bishop Cannon's remarks was the assertion of Dr. Arthur J. Barton, chairman of the national executive committee of the Anti-Saloon league, that he was "unalterably and forever opposed to any proposal to resubmit the eighteenth amendment, no matter what the method proposed or devised for this submission."

Dr. Barton said that if a large number of states voted for repeal, the condition of the country would be made many times worse, even though more than the necessary one-fourth of the states favored retention of the present law.

Bishop Cannon told the convention that he saw no reason for making prohibition a plank in the Democratic party platform. "Why not get some one to introduce it in the senate and the house and let it take the usual course without regard to party lines?" he asked.

ORDERS 300 CHICKS TO ADD TO HER FLOCK

BY W. F. WINSEY

Medina—As Mrs. Edgar Dorow was renovating her brooder house recently the writer advised her to disinfect the house with a solution consisting of a 15 cent can of lye in 15 gallons of water. This solution is cheap and it will do the job perfectly. She has ordered 300 chicks from which she expects to get her next fall's laying flock. She has culled her old flock of 200 hens down to 75.

Last week Mr. Dorow was top dressing a field with barnyard manure. He said that he expects to plant four acres of potatoes as a cash crop and that he raised four acres of potatoes last summer. In his opinion there will not be much shifting this spring, from one cash crop to another. One crop is just about as good a gamble as any other.

Teach Child To Depend On Itself

BY ANGELO PATRI

The greatest favor home and school can bestow upon a child is to teach him to depend upon himself. We know that he must learn self reliance if he is to get anywhere in this world, and we mean to teach him to acquire it. When we see him fumbling and fooling we just have to lend him a hand. We lend him our hands so many times that before we know it he has forgotten that he has a pair of his own.

The baby is so cunning in his helplessness that instead of doing what we can to make him help himself, we work to the contrary and do all we can to keep him helpless. Not intentionally, of course, but we achieve it just the same. We button him into his clothes instead of leaving the last easy button for him; we pick him up and set him on his chair instead of letting him climb up by himself; we feed him rather than see his awkward efforts to serve himself. By and by we get tired of this service and we impatiently tell the child to help himself. Of course he cannot and he weeps and we storm and wonder why we have so helpless a child.

The older children are very much occupied with their own affairs. There are certain household chores that they dislike, there are certain errands they don't want to perform; "You do it for me, mother, I'm busy," and mother does and keeps on doing until she discovers herself tied to the chariot wheels. Mother sews on buttons, mends, renews, thinks ahead for the things that are going to be needed while the children go their carefree way. "O, it isn't anything. I like doing it."

Of course we like doing it and the children like to have us do it. But what is to happen when they are faced with their own job? When there is nobobdy able or willing to help them? Unless they can rely on the strength of their own strong right arm they are going to be in a bad way. Anybody who has to depend upon others for service is in a very bad position. People help you gladly as long as they know you can help yourself. When they know that you are helpless in their hands, at their mercy, it is another story. The best way to get service is to be in a position to help yourself. Power has many friends. Weakness has none.

A fine little chap about ten years old stopped in my office on his way to his classroom and asked me, anxiously, "Is my part straight? I don't want to go into the classroom if it isn't straight and I couldn't see very well this morning."

I scanned the part in the shining black hair and said, "It's a little off at the front end. Just a little." He took out his comb and said "Will you start it? Just start it straight. I can do the rest. You see my mother is sick just now and I don't want to bother her. She always starts the part and I finish. Thanks very much. Look all right now?"

"Fine," said I. "I'm sorry to hear your mother isn't well. Who's taking care of you?"

"Myself. I can make breakfast. I always do. I get dad started and give mother her coffee and roll, then I eat my breakfast and clean up and come to school. I just can't start that part right yet. But I'll get it. Thanks very much." I knew that that lad would be able to carry on by the strength of his own right arm some day. He was headed right and going strong.

The STORY OF SUE

By Margery Hale

A NEW COMER

CORRINNE'S voice calling from the doorway of her house, across the road, interrupted Sue's words.

"What happened, Harry? Is anyone hurt?"

Sue gazed at Harry questioningly. "Doesn't she know?"

Harry shook his head. "She was in the sun parlor. I followed Ruth and didn't have time to explain. She didn't know what happened or who it was."

Sue nodded. "Then don't tell her, will you? Just say that a couple of girls upset in a snowdrift."

Harry's round blue eyes were puzzled. "I can't do that. Why shouldn't she know?"

"She might think that I shouldn't have been driving on this road. Oh, I'll be frank about it. I was homesick to see my family. I thought maybe my father and mother were here. So I took this road."

"You are coming in." Harry took her firmly by the arm and started to pilot her across the street.

She pulled away. "I'm not coming in. Now or ever. That is, for a long time. Not until everything is straightened out. Ruth and I'll get a taxicab. Will you call one for us, please?"

Ruth, who had been watching quietly, nodded.

"It won't disturb your party then. We'll wait on the porch."

"But I don't understand," Harry began. They were almost at the house now. Corrinne had closed the door and turned away. She couldn't make out the silhouetted figures in the dusk anyway, Sue knew, so she wasn't afraid of being recognized.

At the edge of the long veranda that wound around one side of the house, Sue and Ruth paused.

"Well sit here," Sue said. "It doesn't seem cold now. Will you get the cab?"

"But you can't." Harry was getting excited.

"Listen, Harry, we can!" Sue wondered why her voice was so firm when her legs were so weak. "You don't understand. You are a man. But I can't give in to Corrinne....not even if she is my sister. She asked me not to come back. I can't! And I won't!"

Her voice shook a little.

"Then I'll get my car and be with you in a second," Harry answered. "Wait right where you are."

Corrinne came to the door again. Sue slipped into the shadows. Others came to the windows. Evidently the wreck was being discussed. The strange man who had accompanied Harry to the scene of the accident hadn't recognized either Sue or Ruth. He could say only that two girls had upset. That nobody was hurt. Nobody was hurt....Now Sue began to feel the drip of the blood. She was hurt. Not much, perhaps. But hurt. But she would be home in time to receive Jack's long distance telephone call, and that would be something. She didn't believe that she would tell him about the automobile accident. She would explain that later.

Ruth said nothing. Just sat and stared into the snowy night.

"I feel the way outcasts must," Sue said presently. "Firelight within. Lamp shine. Warmth. Is it really so awful cold or am I just getting weak?"

"It isn't very warm," Ruth answered. "Here comes Harry. There's another man with him. He looks familiar. . . ." She strained her eyes to see him.

FINANCIAL INDEPENDENCE TO COMBAT GUARDIAN'S MATRIMONIAL PLANS—MARRIAGE-SCARED MALE

Dear Virginia Vane: I am an orphan but have a most kind and interested guardian whose chief ambition in life is to have me marry and settle down. He has picked out the man for me who is considered a great catch around town. Everyone knows of my guardian's plans and this puts me in a most embarrassing position. The man himself knows and seems to be amused. I haven't the slightest desire to be forced into marriage with him but it looks as if I were going to be. The man in the case doesn't give any great evidence of being in love with me. As for me, I am too embarrassed to act natural any more so consequently no one can be expected to like me. Please tell me what to do.

ALICE.

In the first place, get it firmly fixed in your mind that no one in the wide world can MAKE you marry a man you don't love. If you remind yourself of this important fact several times a day you'll acquire a certain amount of self-confidence which you now lack. You're actually allowing yourself to believe at present, that some fearful power is going to rush you into matrimony whether you're interested or not.

In the second place, try to prove to your guardian that your only salvation does not lie in the direction of an early marriage. He feels his responsibility concerning you and he is looking around for someone else to hand you over to. You've got to show him that you can be independent, without the aid of a husband who has been urged on you.

Get to work to find yourself a job, or train yourself for a job. Start right now to prepare yourself for real independence so that your well-meaning guardian no longer feels it necessary to find you a husband immediately.

Don't sit home and worry about the man you don't want to marry. Make it your business to find some road to freedom and then you'll be able to prove to those around you that you are not so desperately in need of help as they imagine. Good luck to you.

GRACE: It's hard lines to have to wait for your wedding—but isn't it better to go on a bit longer, as you are, and let your fiance come to a final decision about the marriage?

You see, if he has this terrific fear of matrimony and all the disillusionments and disappointments it may bring with it—he isn't exactly in the right mood for wedding bells. He is starting off at a disadvantage—already worried and anxious about a thousand things that never happened. The minute anything goes wrong between you two in the first months of your married life, he will promptly jump to the conclusion that the trouble he had already feared has come upon him—and consequently the situation will be far more serious than it would ordinarily be.

Instead of rushing through the marriage — let the whole thing drop for a while — and tell him flatly that until he can view the thought of matrimony with some happiness and confidence, you do not want to consider it.

This may have more effect on him than all your pleas for an early wedding. If he realizes that he may lose the girl he loves by allowing imaginary fears to fill his mind—then he may snap out of it all. He may actually work himself into the state of mind where anything is preferable to doing without you for the rest of his life. That is the state of mind in which a prospective bridegroom ought to find himself—and it would certainly be worth your while to give your man time to adjust himself to the idea of undertaking wedlock if you want to start off in the right way.

So stop talking about the whole thing for a while—and let him stop worrying about the dreadful responsibilities of matrimony and begin worrying about whether you are going to marry him at all.

ALFALFA ROOTS IN FINE CONDITION

Leaves Are Frosted, but Majority of Plants Appear Promising

BY W. F. WINSEY

Dale—A careful inspection of an alfalfa field of Walter Sommers, one of the outstanding alfalfa growers of his part of Outagamie-co, showed that while the tiny, new, green leaves have been frosted and blown away the crowns and roots of the plants were in first class condition for growth

Mr. Sommers has 24 acres of an old seeding of alfalfa, parts of it 3 years old and parts two years old

He has been raising alfalfa very successfully the past 12 years and has never had any winterkilling of his stands but once. As he was experimenting when the stand winterkilled, he considers the loss of the crop his own fault.

As he cannot compete with the weather and pests, the drouth and grasshoppers, last summer cut down his predicted yields of hay to 28 tons. He got practically a ton of his hay from the first cutting The drouth and the grasshoppers took his second cutting and his third cutting was very light and very hard to cure.

He sells no alfalfa hay and does not plan to do so. If the time comes when he cannot feed all the alfalfa hay he raises, he will, first, store the surplus for a rainy day, and if this does not work out he will, second, buy more cows to eat the surplus His purpose in his conditional expansion plan is to carry back from his stables to his fields all the residue fertilizers of alfalfa hay.

FARMER DEPENDS ON OLD MEADOW FOR HAY

BY W. F. WINSEY

An old meadow of ten acres of timothy will supply Henry Buchholtz, route 2, with all the hay needed by his cattle and horses next winter provided the field does as well as usual. An old seeding of timothy will also supply his animals with pasture.

Last spring Mr. Buchholtz sowed three acres with sweet clover seed using oats as a nurse crop, but the sweet clover did not show up on account of the drouth. The drouth prevented him from getting his usual growth of oats, and grasshoppers clipping the stems were the cause of large proportion of the heads falling to the ground where they could not be gathered with the grain binder.

To destroy sow thistles in the oat field after harvest he went over the field with a spring tooth harrow each way every three or four days, last fall, and then sowed the field with rye after a shower to be used as emergency hay. He sowed the rye on Tuesday and it was up on the following Saturday.

This rye in combination with a volunteer stand of oats that grew from the seed that the grasshoppers clipped off gave him a great crop of hay. As the days were short and the field was damp he had considerable trouble however, in making hay of the crop.

Never before have people paid as much attention to proper footfitting as they are today. Which means that both the customer as well as the footfitter are determined to procure as near to 100% comfort out of a shoe as possible. Therefore — as a warning to those who are bordering on the edge of foot ailments — and a remedy to those with these troubles — we suggest that you have your feet fitted by proper footfitters. those men who have stood the test of time and have proved to the public that it can find comfort in a properly fitting shoe.

Be cautious about having your feet fitted by novices or extra help . . they can do more damage with one pair of misfitted shoes than a real foot fitter can remedy in months of special attention after the damage is done.

BOAT STRIKES LOG; 2 RESCUED ON WOLF RIVER

Lyle M'Cully, Miss Marie Thompson Saved After Clinging to Craft

(Special to Post-Crescent)

New London—Clinging to the prow of an overturned motor boat and numb with cold, two young people were rescued about 7 o'clock Thursday evening. The boat, owned by Lyle McCully, struck a watersoaked log and the rear end of the boat sank at once. Both occupants, Mr. McCully of this city and Miss Marie Thompson of Northport, were throw into the water. The girl was unable to swim.

Their cries were heard by Frank Schoenrock, Jr., who with a friend was fishing in a small boat nearby. Crowds of fishermen along the banks were unable to aid the young people who clung to the small part of the boat which was still above water. After considerable time had elapsed Mr. Schoenrock took the young woman into his boat while the rescue of the young man was affected by Capt. Viel who came up with a power boat. Miss Thompson was brought to the city for medical attention, but except for the effects of cold and exhaustion neither were inqured. The accident took place near the first bend in the river west of the city at a point where the water is deep.

Surprise and Bucholz were sentenced to 30 days or fined $50. All chose the jail sentence. The arrests were made at about 10:30 Thursday night. The young men were taken to Waupaca Friday afternoon by Undersheriff James Hanson.

NEW LONDON BARN DESTROYED BY FIRE

Machinery and Lumber. Stored in Building, is Lost in Blaze

Special to Post-Crescent

New London—Fire, which gained considerable headway before it was discovered, razed a large frame barn owned by Ben Rasmussen, on Lima-st in the heart of the residential district of the Fifth ward late Friday night. The barn was used for the storage of machinery and lumber, much of which was destroyed.

Mr. Rasmussen was in Green Bay on business. His sisters, the Misses Rasmussen, saw the flames after the entire structure was afire. Firemen could do little but throw water over surrounding residence roofs to keep the flames from spreading. No estimate of the loss, nor of the amount of insurance was available.

DELAY RULING ON TELEPHONE RATES ISSUE

Farmers Protest Utilities Should Meet Conditions by Cut in Charges

Special to Post-Crescent

Manawa—A decision in the matter of William Feathers, et al, versus the Manawa Telephone company, cannot be made for several weeks, according to A. Kanneberg, counsel for the Public Service commission of the state of Wisconsin, who was in charge of a public hearing at the I. O. O. F. club house here Tuesday. The meeting was called to hear testimony relative to a petition requesting reduced rates for rural telephone service. Thirty-three rural telephone subscribers were present, together with as many other interested listeners.

William Feathers was the first to testify. He told of the meeting of farmers at Symco several months ago which resulted in a petition signed by 229 farmers. He believed that because of the marked decrease in value of farm produce that the utility companies and all others should meet the farmers halfway, and argued that the rate of telephone service for rural subscribers should be lowered from $1.50 to $1 a month. He concluded by saying that farmers generally could not pay the present charges and states his belief that a great many phones would be removed if the rates were not lowered.

Other farmers who testified along the same line as Mr. Feathers, amplifying some of his statements, and reiterating their opinion that the present value of farm produce made it increasingly hard to pay prices of two and three years ago, were E. H. Yohr, William Gehrke, Ernest Miller, Fred Mueske, Otto B. Ploetz, Frank Prill, and Edward P. Ferg.

L. M. Lamkins, manager of the Manawa Telephone company, was asked to testify but he declined as he had already filed reports with the Public Service commission, maintaining that the indications are that whatever slight decrease the company could give and remain solvent would not save an appreciable number of subscribers.

The company claims that it now has one of the lowest rural rates in the country, and that the earnings over a period of 12 years is not in excess of 4.2 per cent which has not allowed them to set aside a surplus during good times so that it can make a sacrifice now. The company also claims that it has already met the farmer halfway by not asking for an increase in 1925 when, in its opinion, it was entitled to one. As it is, the telephone company insists that it is forced to practice every economy to maintain the standard of service.

Marie Roman, 30, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Roman of Manawa, died at an Oshkosh hospital, Wednesday morning after an illness of about 10 days, following a nervous breakdown. Death was due to acute eucephalitis.

Miss Roman, who taught at the Evanswood school south of Weyauwega the past year, conducted her classes for the last time on Friday, April 1, and could not resume them again because of illness. She was confined to her home until Monday of this week when she was taken to Oshkosh. Her condition became suddenly worse Tuesday evening and she died a few hours later.

She was born in the town of P[illegible]alton, November, 7 1901. She came to Manawa with her parents when a child and made her home here ever since. She graduated from Manawa high school in 1921 and from Stevens Point state teachers college in 1923. Since that time she had taught at the Vaughan school, Sandy Hollow, Maple Valley, and Evanswood, and was considered one of the most efficient teachers in the rural school systems of Waupaca-co.

Besides her parents, Miss Roman is survived by four brothers, Paul E., Clifford, and John Roman of Manawa, and Francis Roman, a student at Stevens Point teachers college.

Funeral services were held at the Sacred Heart church in Manawa Saturday morning. The Rev. F. M. McKeough, pastor of the church was in charge of the services, assisted by Rev. J. R. McGinley of Chilton and Rev. N. L. Gross of Mackville. Interment will be in the Sacred Heart cemetery.

Hack Wilson's Home Run Helps Dodgers To 8 And 2 Victory

DON HURST IS STAR AS PHILS DOWN GIANTS

Selph Singles With Bases Loaded in 13th and Chi Sox Win

BY HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

IF Burt Shotton leads his flailing Phillies out of the National league wilderness this season—and he threatens to—one of the chief reasons perhaps will be the sudden development of Don Hurst into an aggressive player with a real enthusiasm for the game.

Wilson

Despite great natural advantages, Hurst's value to the club has been lessened by an apparent lack of spirit and fire. For four years he has been a steady worker at first base for the Phils but an uninspired one.

Now he has become one of the big driving forces on a team firmly convinced that it is going somewhere this year. Shotton's men regard a first division berth as a virtual certainty.

Hurst was one of the big stars in the Phillies' victory over the Athletics in the city series and yesterday he pounded out a home run with the bases filled in the eighth inning to give the Phils their second straight victory over the proud New York Giants, 7-6.

Wilson Gets Homer

Hack Wilson's first home run of the year, coming with two on base in the seventh, broke up a pitcher's duel between Bill Clark and Tom Zachary and gave the Brooklyn Dodgers an easy 8-2 triumph.

At St. Louis, the world champion Cardinals battered Pittsburgh pitching for 15 hits, ten for extra bases, yet failed to avert a 9-7 defeat, the Pirates bunching most of their hits for seven runs in the fourth inning.

Lon Warneke, Rookie pitcher, scattered Cincinnati's eight hits and Chicago coasted to an easy 8-2 victory.

Pitchers dominated the American league schedule except at Philadelphia where the New York Yankees and Athletics put on another slugging duel that finally went to the A's in the ninth inning, 9-8. Foxx and Cochrane hit homers for the A's and Gehrig got his second of the season for the Yankees.

Sox Win In 13th

Bumps Hadley held the St. Louis Browns to seven hits and fanned ten as the Chicago White Sox, a vastly improved array, won a 13-inning struggle 4-3, when Carey Selph singled with the bases filled.

Monte Weaver made his American league debut for the Washington Senators and blanked the Boston Red Sox on four hits, 2-0. Earl Whitehill, veteran right hander of the Detroit Tigers, held the Cleveland Indians to three hits but it took a ninth inning rally to win for the Tigers, 3-2.

BADGERS PLANNING FOR SPEARS BANQUET

Madison—Arrangements for the welcome banquet to be tendered to Dr. Clarence W. Spears, the University of Wisconsin's new football coach, April 27, were substantially advanced Wednesday, at the first full meeting of the executive committee, representing the Wisconsin Alumni Association and the Wisconsin Undergraduate Club, which are sponsoring the event, with the active cooperation of the Madison Association of Commerce.

Most important announcement emanating from the meeting was that John St. John will act as chairman of the ticket committee. Mr. St. John is enthusiastic over the plan—in particular, the decision to make it a popular priced event. He will announce the personnel of his committee within a few days. Meanwhile, tickets are on sale at the University athletic ticket office, 711 Langdon Street, where Harry Schwenker reports a brisk demand for the dinner tickets.

N. B. A. Investigating Activities Of Max, Jack

BY CHARLES DUNKLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO—(AP)—Jack Dempsey and Max Schmeling, past and present masters of the heavyweight boxing world, were threatened with banishment from National Boxing Association territory today.

Schmeling

Dempsey's troubles involved an old case whereas the German champion's concerned an alleged "ringer" in a match at Toronto, Canada.

General John V. Clinnin, chairman of the N.B.A. started an investigation of Schmeling yesterday after receiving a complaint from George Panka, Pittsburgh heavyweight, that he was named as the man the champion defeated in a nexhibition match at Toronto, April 1, while he was spending a peaceful evening in Pittsburgh. General Clinnin immediately asked officials of the Canadian Boxing Federation for full details of the match.

"If the man Schmeling fought that night was advertised as Panka and was somebody else, we want to know all about it", General Clinnin said. "No one can get away with anything like that in N.B.A. territory, at least. If Panka's charges are correct, we will have no other recourse than to ban Schmeling in our regions."

The Dempsey case extends way back to November, 1930, when he engaged in a boxing show at Columbus, Miss., programmed as the "Dempsey day celebration". Incurred bills of $2,800 were left unpaid and the creditors complained to the Mississippi State Boxing commission a member of the N.B.A. Dempsey and his manager, Leonard Sacks, insisted that Dempsey went to Columbus only in the role of a referee and had no promotional interest and informed the commission and the N.B.A. to that effect this winter at a conference in Chicago.

The Mississippi commission invited Dempsey and Sacks to Jackson, Miss., yesterday and were informed by Sacks that "Dempsey and myself are too busy on matters of importance for furtherance of boxing to waste our time appearing before your commission." So the Mississippi body suspended Dempsey, Sacks and Ned Parsons of New Orleans, a promoter of the Columbus show. Dempsey also was assessed a $300 fine.

Although officials of the N.B.A. have been inclined to believe there was some mistake in the Columbus incident insofar as Dempsey's alleged connection as promoter, it was a rule in the organization that any suspension inflicted by a member would be enforced by all 42 states of the organization.

MAXIE WALKS OUT

Fortress Monroe, Va. —(AP)— Max Schmeling apparently doesn't believe a world's heavyweight champion should display his wares before a handful of spectators.

He refused to go on with a scheduled exhibition sparring match at a local theater last night and some 500 fans who were anticipating a glimpse of the champion in action were refunded their money.

Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager said Schmeling did not appear because a $1,500 guarantee promised him from the exhibition proceeds had not been paid.

Boos and catcalls greeted the announcement that the match had been cancelled, but there was no disorder.

— Calling the Strikes —

New York—(CPA)— Is the old toast "bottoms up" to be the order of the day in the National league race this year? Is this the year to which the Phillies have looked forward since the late Pat Moran closed out his regime at Baker bowl and moved on to Cincinnati? Are the Phils, whose strange antics drove Arthur Fletcher out of the National league and his successor, Stuffy McInnis, out of organized baseball, about to deliver for Burt Shotton, who has been tinkering with them patiently since 1928? By "deliver" is not meant to win the pennant. No one expects them to do that.

The Phils and their manager are subjects of much conversation as a result of the drubbing to which the Giants were subjected by them in the opening game of the season. The Phils attracted attention because they looked less like "the same old Phillies" than they generally do. One was moved to suspect, even on so slender a thread of evidence as was offered that day, that Shotton is making definite progress with the noble experiment he undertook in 1928. Reinforced by Ed Holley, pitcher, from Kansas City; Al Todd, catcher, from Dallas, and George Davis, outfielder, from St. Paul, they made the most of the many openings the Giants gave them on Tuesday, being sprightlier and more alert than a Philadelphia team has been in a long while.

TAVENER'S HITS HELP MILWAUKEE WALLOP TOLEDO

Louisville Beats St. Paul in Fourth Straight Game; Blues Win

BY PAUL MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO—(AP)—American association batsmen already have declared an open season on pitchers.

It isn't exactly unusual to see a lot of pitchers in action during the early days of a baseball campaign, but so far the wielders of the big stick in the Hickey circuit have forced a steady parade of hurling talent from the mound to the clubhouse showers except on the first day of the season.

As all eight clubs swung into action again yesterday, the bombardment was so fierce that 18 pitchers were called for duty with those wearing the regimentals of Minneapolis, St. Paul, Toledo and Columbus routed by defeats. The gunning was so heavy that 81 hits and 50 bases on balls were recorded for the statisticians.

Colonels Win Again

Louisville continued its dizzy pace by dropping St. Paul, 6 to 5, for four straight victories. The Colonels drove Van Atta to the showers with a salvo of hits that netted two runs and hammered Strelecki, his successor, hard enough to keep the lead the rest of the trip. Todt drove a homer over the right field wall for the Saints' first two runs and in the ninth the defending champions push over three more in a rally that Clyde Hatter stopped.

Milwaukee also carried on by defeating Toledo for the second straight time in a heavy duel, 11 to 5. Jackie Tavener led the Brewers with four hits, good for a collection of six runs. Milwaukee stored the game away with a fine run scoring splurge in the fifth inning. In all, they punched out 15 hits off four Mud Hen pitchers, starting with Van Gilder.

Another five run assault in the fifth inning carried Kansas City to its second straight triumph over Columbus, 7 to 4. Lou Fette was nicked for 13 hits but had enough timely assistance from his mates to offset the damage.

Heving Beats Mills

Heving was the hero of the day as Indianapolis beat out Minneapolis, 5 to 4, to win the series three games to one. He was sent in to relieve Barnhart with the bases loaded in the fourth, pulled his mates out without any damage and pitched brilliantly the rest of the way.

The battle lines shifted today with Milwaukee at Columbus, Kansas City at Toledo, St. Paul at Indianapolis and Minneapolis at Louisville.

Two Performer league teams on Elk alleys and one Menagerie team are at the top of the heap in world series play as result of last night's games. And most of the other teams are tied at three all. All of which should bring a cry for an investigation ov Judge Landis or Congress.

Strange as it may seem last night's games saw the winners of last week's games the losers. And next Friday the big night will be on.

Barkers of the Performer loop still are on top because they won three games last week. They dropped two last night to the Tigers. R. Cushner rolled 211 for the Tigers in the first game and W. Fries 236 in the second. The latter also had a 601 series.

Hippoes lost two to even matters with the Fakirs, the latter getting its only win by a one point margin. Clowns used their 58 to 6 handicap to win two from the Hyenas and the Midgets won two from the Bears. Crandall led in the first Midget win and Fassbender led.

Only three Roustabouts rolled against the Elephants but with a 61 pin handicap they were good enough to beat the latter team in two games. Wirewalkers collected two wins over the Giraffes and evened their match.

Tumblers eked out two wins over the Lions one by 14 pins. Leopards dropped two to the Freaks and let the latter move into first place with a 4 to 2 margin. Hannen showed a 197, 171, 230 for the winners and Leonard 186, 188, 235—554. The latter team had a 1045 in its last game and a 2792 match score.

Ringmasters evened matters with the Camels when they won two games behind the bowling of G. Schmidt and F. Hemsmann.

Capt. Frank Shipley, University of Virginia first baseman, also is a star on the gridiron. His home is Princeton N. J.

Sports Question Box

Q.—May a base runner attempt to steal on a foul tip that is caught?

A.—Yes. It is a strike if it is caught.

Q.—How old was Jim Corbett when he won the heavyweight title? After losing the title did he regain it?

A.—26 years old. No. Corbett lost to Bob Fitzsimmons, who in turn was beaten by Jim Jeffries. Corbett was beaten by Jeffries twice.

Q.—How many organized leagues will there be in 1932?

A.—Somewhere around twenty may start.

Q.—Is a clay running track better than a cinder one for records?

A.—Clay track is more elastic, makes for swifter running, provided it is an old one and has been kept in fine condition.

Q.—If the old manner of pitching was in effect now could the ball be successfully pitched sixty feet, six inches?

A.—It is very doubtful.

Q.—With which hand are most knockouts scored? Are there any one-punch knockouts in the ring today?

A.—The right. No. Knockouts. If the boxers are not overmatched, are usually scored after a series of blows.

SHANTY HOGAN AGAIN IN BAD WITH M'GRAW

New York—(AP)—Frank (Shanty) Hogan, burly catcher of the New York Giants, is in John McGraw's bad graces again.

McGraw won't permit Hogan to catch until he gets down to 228 pounds. He scales 232 now and thus is in the position of being virtually suspended although he must report to the ball park every morning and run around like a marathon athlete.

CAGNEY, BLONDELL AGAIN REUNITED

Appear Together in "The Crowd Roars," Thrilling Race Picture

James Cagney and Joan Blondell are reunited again for the first time since their appearance in "Blonde Crazy" in the starring roles of "The Crowd Roars," Warner Bros. thrilling special production coming to Appleton Theatre at midnite show to-nite and Sunday, Mon. and Tues.

Appearing in support of Cagney and Blondell is a large cast including Ann Dvorak, Eric Linden, Frank McHugh, Guy Kibbee and a score of racing drivers, among them the Indianapolis Speedway champions Billy and Lou Schneider. Other famous racers are Fred Frame, Leo Nomis, Ralph Hepburn, Harry Hartz, Spider Matlock and Wilbur Shaw.

In "The Crowd Roars," Cagney appears as a champion driver whose dare devilry on the track wins him the adulation of the speed fraternity and the grandstands. After rising to the heights he goes to pieces by causing the death of his relief driver and best friend during a gruelling race. Incidental to the race, Cagney had quarreled with his young brother, portrayed by Eric Linden, to whom he had taught all the tricks of the speed trade. His brother had become almost as famous as he and had fallen in love with Joan Blondell, who here portrays the role of a race track follower. Cagney's anger that his brother should mix with the same kind of women with which he had formerly associated drives him to discharge him, after losing the important race in which he was the cause of his friend's death.

Eventually Cagney sinks to the depths and is unable to secure even a mechanic's job in the drivers pit at the big Indianapolis races. An accident enables him to pilot his brother's car, after his brother, a favorite in the race, had been disabled. His old zest for the track and driving ability return to him and he drives to victory with his sweetheart, who had been instrumental in his comeback, looking on.

"THE CHAMP" ONE OF OUTSTANDING FILMS

The hero of "The Big House" plays the father of "Skippy" in a combination that is really an event of the screen season. Wallace Beery and Jackie Cooper appear as two stars in a single picture in "The Champ," Metro-Goldwyn - Mayer's dramatic romance of sporting life and the human angle behind it, which is showing at the Elite Theatre today and Sunday.

Primarily it is a mighty drama of the love of a father and his son. There is a gripping element of human sacrifice. Surrounding this is comedy galore and the thrills of a Mexican border town, with its gambling, racing and prize fighting. Much of it was actually filmed in Mexico.

Beery is seen as a defeated fight champion, who has taken his small son to a border resort where he tries to achieve a comeback. To all others he is a "has-been," but to the boy, he is the greatest man on earth. And, when the time comes, the old fighter makes a sacrifice for the boy's future that proves him the best man of them all.

MISS MARSH, WILLIAM CO-STAR IN NEW FILM

'Beauty And The Boss,' the Warner Bros., and Vitaphone picture coming to the Appleton Theatre next Wednesday for a 2 day engagement co-stars Marian Marsh and Warren William for the second time in recent months. Their first co-starring vehicle was "Under Eighteen" which marked Miss Marsh's entry into the select circle of stardom.

In the brief year in which she has appeared in motion pictures, Miss Marsh has also appeared twice opposite John Barrymore, and once each opposite Edward G Robinson, Richard Barthelmess and William Powell.

William has been in pictures but a short time and has already appeared in several important roles. His first work was rewarded by a long-term contract. He will shortly appear in 'The Mouthpiece' a picture dealing with the highlights of a famous New York criminal lawyers life.

LEWIS' NOVEL MADE INTO TALKING FILM

Sinclair Lewis' greatest novel becomes Samuel Goldwyn's greatest screen achievement. Arrowsmith the great American novel becomes the great American picture. Once in a while there comes a picture so far and away above the average entertainment that the newspapers do not only give it space in their editorials about it as well. Such pictures are milestones in the progress of the talking screen. Just such a picture is Arrowsmith, the eminent picturization of Sinclair Lewis' tremendous novel. Press and public have accorded it lavish praise. It is not merely a great picture it is a masterpiece. Arrowsmith is entertainment no one can afford to miss

Here's Scene From "The Champ"

Your Birthday

BY MARY BLAKE
"ARIES"

If April 17th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8.10 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 7:15 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 1:30 p. m., and from 10 p m. to 11:20 p. m.

Hankering will be supplanted by happiness on April 17th, as it is shown to be a time of unexpected and pleasant happenings. Family and community life are shown at their best. The spirit of the day will act as a tonic, and it should be a week of history making.

The children born on this April 17th will be critical, studious, methodical and industrious. Given something to do, it will peg away at it until it is done to the best of its ability. It will not need to be bribed to do things, as it will like responsibilities and the glories of achievement will suffice.

Character analysis of those born on April 17th:—To know you is to realize that truth, honesty and decency are not out of date. Your life will be rich in thought and experiences, but will be lived cleanly and in a downright and above-board fashion. Your ideals are not always practical or attainable, but they are at least something worthy of strife, and will carry you upwards, instead of downwards, on your journey through life.

You have many traits typical of that of a reformer, and will probably devote yourself to more than one lost cause. You are not afraid of rowing against the stream of popular opinion if you feel in your heart that you are right. You do not talk about what ought to be done, but take more virile methods in seeing that it is done. You will always have enemies in the opposing camp, but will enjoy universal popularity amongst your real friends.

You are not a procrastinator, and may in your impatience to get things done, err in the opposite direction. You are not particular about details, and work with the end in view regardless of methods of attainment. You are an idealist in your views about love and marriage, and a union with one of dissimilar tastes, and who is not a mental comrade, would probably not be a lasting alliance.

Successful People Born April 17th:

1—Hamilton Fish, ex-congressman.
2—John Drinkwater Prince, diplomat.
3—Susan Fenimore Cooper, author.
4—William R. Day, statesman.
5—William Lee founder of firm of Lee & Shepard, Boston.
6—John Pierpont Morgan, financier.

If April 18th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to noon, from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m., and from 7 30 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 8:15 a. m. to 9 30 a. m., and from 2 p. m. to 3.30 p. m.

There are only minor astrological indications for April 18th, and life will probably slip forward in its usual grooves with little change in thought or action. Your role will be that of a disinterested onlooker, rather than that of a more active player inside the game of life.

The child born on this April 18th will not be an athletic, sporty type and if a girl will especially be old-fashioned and domestic. The April 18th boy will be a straight-backed, sturdy and upright and a most dependable, likeable little man. Their complete horoscope is a very pleasing one.

Born on April 18th you have a brusque, impulsive, forceful nature and plunge into things with no preambles. Once having made up your mind, you dismiss all thought to the contrary with dispatch, and finally, pursuing your chosen path to either a glorious success or a courageous failure. You have the sense and grit to grapple with your ordeals face to face and on the spot. You would rather put up with the bad taste of a drastic remedy as a cure for some disturbing element than to chronically poison your system through harboring bad memories from a distance.

You do a lot of grousing and grumbling, which is seldom automatic of anything more radical than letting off steam. It is your safety valve and your associates soon realize that yours is a harmless bark. If you be a man you are afraid of being thought weak to show sentimentality, but no mask can conceal the real tenderness and softness which dwells in your heart for certain people or things. Animals, too, know that you are no one of whom to be afraid.

You would be happier as your own boss than being the salaried help of another. Working under someone else would cramp your style, kill your spirit and lower your efficiency, although nothing could ever make you an unskilled workman. You will laugh at love until Mister or Miss Right (man or woman) comes along

Successful People Born April 18th:

1—Henry P. Tappan, first president of University of Michigan.
2—Ernest Hamlin Abbott, editor.
3—Betty Compson, film artist.
4—Clarence S. Darrow, lawyer.
5—Richard Harding Davis, author
6—William Arnold Shanklin, University president.

TOBACCO GROWERS ON WATCH FOR SPLITWORM

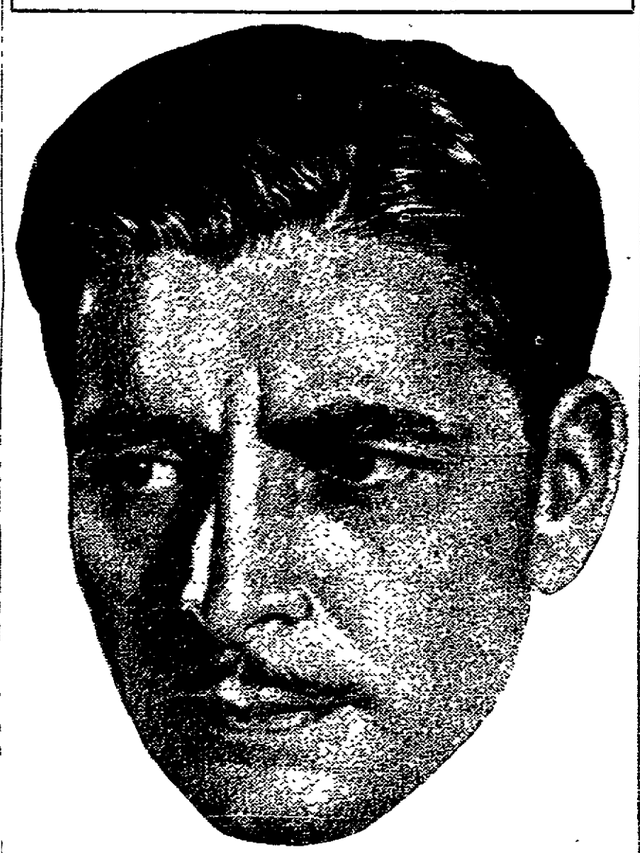

Madison —(AP)— Wisconsin tobacco growers will be on the watch for a new pest this year. It is called the "splitworm."

As far as is definitely known the insect made its first appearance in Wisconsin tobacco fields in damaging number, last year. The pest is common in the south where it also infects potatoes.

The insects were observed early in the season by R. Bushnell and E. M. Searls of the department of economic entomology at the state college of agriculture here. They found the insect destroyed the bud of the tobacco plants with the result that the bud was replaced with "sucker" growth, producing a plant not desirable for yield and quality. The "bud" injury occurred up to 25 per cent in some Wisconsin fields last year.

Later in the season the splitworm went between the leaf surfaces. At the present time it is not known whether the crop injury caused by this insect will continue in Wisconsin inasmuch as its occurrence last year was believed to be the direct result of the unusually mild winter of 1930-31 or the unusual heat and drought in the summer of 1931.

HOLLYWOOD STARS FIND INTEREST IN REARING CHILDREN

Screen Notables Enjoy Playing Role of Parents to Adopted Youngsters

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood —(AP)— "Sophisticated Hollywood" is letting its sentimental side come to the fore these days.

In the last year four screen notables have taken into their hearts and homes six homeless children, and four of the youngsters, by legal adoption, now are their sons or daughters.

George "Slim" Summerville, lanky comedian, and his wife are the latest couple to become foster parents. Before them Constance Bennet and the Wallace Berrys took under their care homeless children.

The Neil Hamiltons now are "experienced parents" almost a year ago they fell in love with the daughter of poor parents who now shares their home.

The addition to the Summerville menage is a boy, now two months old. Their own child lost to them several years ago, the Summervilles found the youngster through an orphanage.

"We named him Elliot George, after my father and myself," Slim says, "and we're both crazy about him."

Constance Bennet's recently adopted youngster is Dennis Arthur Armstrong aged 3 The boy's mother, a cousin of Miss Bennett, and his father were killed in an automobile accident in Europe three years ago. The star brought him to live with her immediately after the tragedy, and after her marriage to Henri de la Falaise filed adoption papers.

The youngster is a prime interest of the blond actress whose smart, sophisticated screen roles do not suggest a domestic inclination.

She is steadfast in her refusal to discuss the boy or allow him to be photographed. She wants him to grow up, she explains, as a normal youngster without the influence of the publicity spotlight.

The Wallace Berrys, themselves childless, are now through adoption the parents of Carol Ann Priester, a chubby girl not yet two, with dark, close-cropped curls. And they are rearing Carol Ann's two older brothers, George, aged 9, and William, aged 4.

Their mother, Mrs. Berry's aunt, died a few months ago, and their father, with his home broken, consented to let the film family take the children.

Young George attends a boys' military school here and little Bill will do likewise when he grows older Carol Ann, who toddles around quite expertly now, is too busy exploring the Berrys' big Beverly Hills home to bother about a "career" yet.

Patricia Louise is Neil Hamilton's favorite topic of conversation. Now a tow-headed infant a year old, with blue eyes, she was chosen for adoption by Neil and Elsa Hamilton when only two days old. They have no other children.

"She's got four teeth now" beams Neil, "and she crawls so fast I'm going to buy her a set of knee-chains to prevent skidding."

When Hollywood adopts babies, it does so in earnest.

WESTERN FIGURE BACK ON SCREEN

Tom Mix, Recovered from Recent Illness, in "Destry Rides Again"

Tom Mix, the greatest western hero of all time, returns to the screen after three triumphal circus years, in "Destry Rides Again." It is scheduled to play at the Appleton Theatre next Friday and Saturday a red letter day in this town. There isn't a boy under sixty who doesn't plan to see Tom Mix on the screen. The only drawback to this first talking appearance of Tom Mix is the fact that Tony cannot talk, too. There isn't anything that Tony cannot do, but so far Mix has not been able to teach Tony to say anything, except in the sign language.

For a time it looked as though Mix would never ride again In that respect, the title of the picture upon which he was ready to go to work was prophetic. The studio had already chosen Max Brand's story, "Destry Rides Again," as the re-entry vehicle for the great western hero, but when he recovered from the most desperate struggle with Old Man Peritonitis, the title, "Destry Rides Again," took on an added significance. In addition to the inevitable Tony, the cast includes Claudia Dell, the beautiful Ziegfeld Follies girl, ZaSu Pitts, Earle Fox, Stanley Fields, Francis Ford, Frederick Howard, Edward Peale and George Ernest.

HOUSE PASSES BILL ON INDIAN LANDS

Measure Would Permit Sale of Unalloted Tracts on Reservation

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)

Washington—The House of Representatives passed a bill to grant the Interior Department authority to sell unalloted lands on the Lac du Flambeau Indian Reservation with a view to meeting the growing demand for lake-shore property for resort purposes.

Under existing law, the department has no authority to sell the lakeshore property but if the Senate passes the bill which was just passed by the House, the Interior Department can proceed with the sale.

Agitation for the legislation was precipitated by a boundary mixup the Lac du Flambeau lakeshore. By involving a tract of tribal land on mistake, a purchaser of an adjoining tract had already placed improvements on this tribal tract and wishes now to acquire title to it.

"In recommending passage of the bill, Secretary of the Interior, Ray Lyman Wilbur told the Indian Affairs committee that better prices may probably be obtained now than in the past

"As the Indians have indicated a favorable attitude toward the proposed disposition, and it is believe that their interests will be served by sales from time to time. We have not limited the authority to one tract but recommend that a general authority be given so that we may be ready to handle like situations on this reservation as may arise.

TWO-FISTED AMAZON

Jacksonville, Fla. — Judge I. M. Anderson could scarcely refrain from laughing. There before him stood a prisoner clad in nothing but a blanket, and two of the blackest eyes he had ever gazed upon. The prisoner got that way because he threatened to shoot the husband of a woman witness. 'He came to my front door last night," she told the judge. "He said he was going to kill my husband. He pointed two guns at me. I took them away from him and hit him."

Chapter 30

GAR'S ROADSTER WAITS

"I WENT over our bills yesterday, Gar,' Kitty said. "We'll have to scrimp for the next two months to pay for them." She laughed to make the scrimping seem nothing.

"Bills? Oh, I guess we don't have to worry about those.'

"Christmas always costs a lot of money but it's worth it, isn't" We can catch up easily, neither of us need any clothes for ages. And I don't really need flowers, darling, though I love them when you send them. And I can cut down quite a bit on the house expenses." She kept to her light tone.

Gar pinched her cheek. "What you can't seem to grasp, Kit, is that you're married to a rich man's son. I could run an account in every store in this city and they'd stand for it, they know I'm coming into a lot of money some day."

Kitty had turned away to pour fresh coffee. Gar could not see the quick color that flamed to her face, the way she bit lips together. She'd been dangerously near to a retort that would have made Gar angry. When she answered it was in a steady voice, soberly.

"I don't want it that way, Gar. I want us to get ahead on our own And we will."

"Sure we will And you're not to stew about money. Where are those bills? Give them to me. I'll take care of them."

"But hon, Gar?"

"Oh, I've got a deal on. If he keeps his eyes open a man in business can turn over a thousand any time he wants to."

She gave him the little packet of bills and he put them in his pocket. "After this, I'll take care of these matters at the office. I'm not going to have you fussing about them." His manner was all tender.

He kissed her, put on his coat, kissed her again.

Kitty began her day's program with a light heart. Oh, what a goose she'd been to worry, to feel afraid of talking to Gar about their finances And what a man of the world Gar was getting to be!

The morning's mail brought her a long letter from Sally Withers.

". . . Kitty, I'm telling you before anyone else, except my family, of course Phil and I are engaged.

"He's been working in his father's bank but last month he got a position over at the power plant at Combi, and he's getting fifty dollars a week and I'm going to take Miss Brant's place at the library and I'll get twenty, so we'll that we can manage beautifully. We're going to live with his father and mother for awhile. They're taking an apartment on the third floor.

'Can you come down for the wedding? Phil says he'd like Gar to stand up with him and of course I want you. It's going to be very simple. just here at the house, and we plan now that it will be in March or April. I'll write to you the moment we've decided."

Kitty glowed and laughed over the letter Practical Sally, putting her happiness in such a matter-of-fact way!

Of course she and Gar would go to the wedding

She called Gar on the telephone to give him the news But Gar was not in his office Old Jonathan said that Gar would not be in until four o'clock

Probably Kitty suspected he was out somewhere "turning" his cool thousand' She compared it complacently with Phil Crown's pledging.

The quiet hours afternoon invited her out for a walk Within a few blocks of Ketchum Street she yielded to a sudden impulse to hunt David out

He answered her ring, hesitating a moment before he admitted her But she knew on the swift lighting of his sensitive face that he was glad to see her.

"You've timed your coming by some magic" he told her. He indicated a thick flat package on his table. "There it is, ready for its fate"

"Oh, David, we'll celebrate! Let's have tea at that little place where we went before. David, when it's out, won't it show them?"

He knew what she meant. He shook his head. "That was my trouble. I was working for that end, you see, and I was down a blind alley. I got out of it. I don't care if they never see it. I finished it to get a better opinion of myself. And now it's done maybe I won't need the scorn of a certain blue-eyed lady I know to stiffen my back-bone."

His statement, put simply, moved Kitty curiously. She felt rebuked and unaccountably elated all at the same moment. I don't think I ever was scornful about you, David!" she denied quickly. And then she laughed, the color flooding her face. She was taking a great deal to herself. Dorcas' eyes were blue.

"But, David, I'm glad for you! 'Jungle' I can see it on the bookstands.'

He agreed that they'd celebrate. He was in a gay mood.

They drank several cups of tea and ate innumerable sandwiches.

She told him about her letter from Sally and laughed as she pictured for him Sally and Phil, the unromantics.

"I'm going to have a good talk with Sally. I must warn her not to take everything so seriously." Kitty assumed a very experienced and much-married manner. "I've found that out." She gave a little laugh. "David, haven't I changed a lot since that first night we met?"

He considered, without any answer, the bright face opposite him.

"I can see, myself, just how I've changed," she pursued, rather liking the review. "I must have seemed very young to you at first."

"You were a kid—and a very lonesome one at that," David agreed gravely.

"And you were so nice to me. You said then that I must be patient with Gar. And something about my standing on my two feet.

"Well, I didn't do either the one thing or the other. The first clash we had I got crazy and rushed away from Gar, went to you—"

"You call it crazy, now?"

"Oh, yes, David I wasn't patient. And I didn't stand on my two feet at all. I leaned mostly awfully on you"

"You are disillusioning me. I thought you were rather a wonder"

"Oh, I wasn't anything of the sort. Now I'm adapting myself. And isn't that the way it should be?"

"Do you want my honest opinion?"

'Of course," she challenged.

"I liked the you you were when you were living on Ketchum Street. There was something rather fine about you I thought you were going to be—" He hesitated, bringing his brows together over a little doubt, then finished inadequately, different."

"Oh, David' And I was so unhappy then!" She, in her turn, stopped confused, a little angry.

"It's that you thing just of me and not of me and Gar," she protested sharply

He did not look at her. He nodded his head. "Exactly. I prefer to think of you and not of you and Gar."

"Well, it can't be done." She managed an unruffled tone. "Gar and I are indissolubly one." She had an irresistible desire to flaunt her security. 'I'm sorry if you're disappointed in me, she finished archly

'Did I call it that? I'm interested, notwithstanding—"

"Will I make copy for your next book? There will be a next, won't there"

'Perhaps" he answered noncommittally

She was afraid he was shutting a door on her 'What does Dorcas say now that you've finished 'Jungle'? Isn't she pleased?"

'She doesn't know."

"Oh, David, you're the limit. You're homeless" Kitty laughed in exasperation. He was too incurably sensitive he wouldn't tell Dorcas until he knew the manuscript was sold.

David walked with her a part of the way back to the Tudor Arms. Kitty was thinking what a pleasant afternoon they had had together.

They had turned into the street that led past the Crosby house. It stood now, in the dusk, a shadowy pile of granite with oblongs of mellow light suggesting luxurious warmth and comfort within.

An asphalt drive curved to its wide entrance. A roadster waited on the drive.

"Why—" the little word escaped Kitty. It was Gar's car. She walked along for a moment in silence.

Then: "Gar has to stop at Marge's often. They're planning the next play, you see." Her head went up, her square little chin set determinedly. She was answering herself, for David had said nothing.

New York — (AP) — Stocks were unable to continue their recovery through a third session today, although the bond market still felt the stimulating effect of the federal reserve's credit expansion program.

Trading quarters were inclined to look upon the upturn in the stock market of the past two sessions as largely a technical rebound, and to await something in the way of favorable news before trying to press the rally further. In the meantime, enough weekend profit taking and selling came into the market to cause numerous recessions of fraction to more than 2 points from yesterday's close.

The list pushed up a little at the start, slid back, then hardened for a time as coppers had a temporary upturn, but sold off again in the final dealings, and the closing tone was heavy. Trading was quiet, however. The turnover for the short session approximated half a million shares.

Auburn was a soft spot, breaking nearly 5 points to close to 37, a new low since traded here, as a further reflection of the first quarter report showing net of 4 cents a share. The stock sold as high as 514 in 1929.

American Telephone also encountered fresh pressure, losing about more than 2. Coca Cola and Western Union sagged a couple of points and Eastman dropped 4. Issues off a point or so included U. S. Steel, Standards of New Jersey and California, Alleged Chemical, Union Carbide, and Air Reduction.

In the coppers, American Smelting preferred advanced 2 points, the common a fraction, and Kennecott, Magma and Cerro De Paso were firm for a time.

The buying of the coppers evidently reflected reports of a little better foreign inquiry for the metal, although prices were unchanged. The cotton market was barely steady, futures sagging 25 to 40 cents a bale.

Trade news at the weekend still afiled to provide much of a sufficiently tangible nature to influence the market, although the automobile industry was being watched closely for signs of expanding operations, as result of the extensive sales efforts. In the Youngstown Steel area, which serves the motor makers to a considerable extent, it was estimated that mills would expand operations a little next week.

In the foreign exchange markets, the French franc still held firmly against the dollar, and sterling pushed up about a cent.

STEADY TONE IN CURB DEALINGS

Commonwealth Edison Has Narrow Advance, Finishes Unchanged

New York —(AP)— The curb market had a steady tone in quiet weekend dealings today.

Recent gains were well maintained by utility leaders which afforded a large proportion of the short session's small turnover. Specialties, industrials and oils were dull.

Commonwealth Edison had a narrow advance but finished unchanged. Electric Bond and Share was firm until toward the close when it reached practionally. American Gas and American Light showed minor declines, but Associated Gas "A", Niagara Hudson and United Light "A" moved ahead slightly. Middle West Utilities improved by a nominal fraction.

Cities Service ruled under 5 and closed with a net loss of ⅛ at 4⅞. Standard Oil of Ohio was a firm spot advancing more than a point, but Indiana made little change. Gulf and Humble were dull.

Aluminum of America continued steady, although it was unable to hold a moderate rise. Swift International improved half a point. Cord Corp. despite weakness of Auburn automobile on the stock exchange, was inactive.

PACKERS DIGEST BIG RUN OF CATTLE

20,000 in Excess of Last Week; Fails to Hurt Price Lists

Chicago —(AP)— The packing industry digested a run of 155,90 cattle this week, 20,000 in excess of the number last week, without any serious damage to price lists. In fact, aside from the 50c decline forced in good to choice light heifers, due to excessively disproportionate supplies, most killing classes of bovine stock met with expanded demand and final prices were stronger than a week ago.

Lighter loadings of heavy cattle are suggested for next week in view of the shut-down in kosher killing after Wednesday.

Most of the day's hog receipts were forwarded straight to local packing plants, about 6,000 being checked in by direct routing and scarcely 1,000 fresh hogs were added to the stale contingency of 4,000 on sale in the open market. Lacking demand from packers, sellers found shippers in the market for only a few loads and they took advantage of the situation by bidding 10c lower figures. Light weights clearing at $4.30@4.35, ranged weak to 10c lower than Friday.

No trading took place in the sheep sheds at the stockyards, 8,200 of the 9,000 estimated arrivals being consigned direct to killers, leaving only odd loads in the selling divisions.

VISIONED MODERN SCIENCE IN 1750

Washington — The value of aviation, the submarine and other scientific developments of present civilization was seen by Dr. Samuel Johnson long before Jules Verne wrote his startling scientific predictions, Clarence A. O'Brien, Washington patent attorney informs.

O'Brien has found that Dr. Johnson wrote a book, "A Dissertation on the Art of Flying," stressing the value of aviation in warfare, back in 1759.

"And what is more interesting," O'Brien says, "he refers to a submarine in his bi-weekly journal "The Rambler," back in 1751, more than a century before Jules Verne wrote his book "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea."

Other things that Dr. Johnson visioned are artificial cooling of air, the modern system of water supply, mechanically propelled fans for ventilation and mechanical musical mediums.

THAT MEAN FEELING

Stockton, Cal.—Out for a ride, Miss Floy Nissen, 16, did a little careless driving. Officer E. L. Hansen saw her driving slowly, only to speed up when other cars tried to pass her. "What's the idea of driving like that?" he asked. "Oh, I just feel mean," she said. Hansen felt mean enough to give her a summons.

WEATHER SENDS WHEAT PRICES ON WAY DOWN

Expect More or Less Break-up of Drought Conditions Over Weekend

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN
Associated Press Market Editor

Chicago —(AP)— Dominated by weather uncertainties in drought districts, wheat prices went downhill today.

Chances that a more or less widespread break-up of drought conditions would take place by Monday were generally deemed sufficient to make new buying hazardous at present. Meanwhile, export call for North American wheat was only fair although Germany was credited with some purchasing from Canada, and a much better demand next week was predicted.

With the forecast pointing to possible additional moisture in drought sections over the weekend, wheat bears had a distinct advantage. Setbacks in securities acted also at times as a weight on grain values. On the other hand, unfavorable crop advices continued to pour in from the southwest and west.

Bulls contended that only copious rains soon could avert a crop disaster. It was asserted in some quarters too that the exportable surplus from this season's domestic winter crop had already been reduced to a minimum. Under such circumstances, offerings of future deliveries were relatively scarce, and price downturns lacked any great momentum, but rallies were also without much impetus. Corn and oats paralleled the changes in wheat.

Provisions went lower with hog values.

Corn sold down to within less than 1 cent of the lowest figure of the season. The first of the grain fleet got away yesterday from Chicago with 245,000 bu. of corn destined to an eastern port. Country offerings today to arrive were not large.

After midsession, wheat was ⅜-½ under yesterday's finish, and corn ⅜-½ off.

Corn primary receipts today totaled 416,000 bushels, a week ago 299,000 and a year afo 1,020,000. Chicago arrivals of corn today were 97 cars, compared with 85 the corresponding day last week and 176 at this time last year.

FLASHES OF LIFE

Apart from the clerk's salary, which is about $20 a year, the council usually spends two shillings and six pence. But because of the extravagance this year the budget won't balance, and the clerk may not get his pay.

RADIO NETWORKS FIGHT HARD FOR LISTENER FAVOR

Columbia Broadcasting System Secures Two New Stations

BY ROBERT MACK
(Copyright, 1932, by Cons. Press)

Washington —(CPA) — The unrelenting race between the two nationwide networks to win listener favor is going on behind the scenes in broadcasting today with greater rigor than ever.

On the heels of the announcement that Columbia Broadcasting system has acquired station WHAS of Louisville as an outlet for its programs, inveigling that important station away from the National Broadcasting Co., comes word that the same network will use a new Canadian station of high-power for the avowed purpose of covering the city of Detroit and its environs from across the international border. In broadcasting circles these two moves are regarded as coups for Columbia.

Of equal significance, however, was the election Wednesday of Merlin Hall Aylesworth, president of the N. B. C., to the presidency of Radio-Keith-Orpheum, a sister organization. These two entertainment media thus are brought under common direction, although they remain separate corporately, and can be expected to make greater use of the talent available to the vaudeville-motion picture unit for radio.

WHAS, which within the next few months will increase its power to 50,000 watts—the highest used by any station in this country—is Kentucky's leading station.

On Air Since 1922

Owned and operated by the Courier-Journal and Louisville Times, it has been on the air since 1922. It will join Columbia's network May 15, and will carry a "full schedule" of the chain programs.

The Canadian move, however, is unprecedented and most novel. At present Columbia uses station WXYZ at Detroit, as its outlet in that area. The contract with that station expires June 1 and it will not be renewed. The new Canadian station is now under construction at Windsor, just across the Detroit river from Detroit, and will replace WXYZ as the Columbia outlet. With 5,000 watts power as against 1,000 watts used by WXYZ, the new station will operate on the 540 kilocycle, one of the three new clear channels in the so-called longwave band recently taken over by the Canadian government as the first move toward opening that band for broadcasting. The recognized extremity of the broadcast band is 550 kilocycles, and there may be international complications as a result of the use of those waves for broadcast instead of ship communication and other code services as provided in the international treaty on radio. In Europe, however, long waves already are being used for broadcasting.

The Windsor station is being built by George Storer, formerly connected with WXYZ. While he is an American, his wife is a Canadian citizen, thus apparently making her eligible to be the licensee of the station.

Mr. Aylesworth's ascension to the presidency of R-K-O will not interfere with his duties as executive head of N. B. C., for the present at least. He succeeds Hiram S. Brown, who will remain as a director and advisor to Mr. Aylesworth.

David Sarnoff, president of R. C. A., parent company of both N. B. C. and R-K-O, was reelected chairman of the board of R-K-O. Owen D. Young and Gerard Swope, both of General Electric as well as R. C. A., were elected new members of the R-K-O executive committee, along with A. W. Robertson of Westinghouse.

BONDS CONTINUE BROAD ADVANCE

Utilities Step Into Leadership of the Corporate Classes

New York—(AP)—The bond market continued to advance on a broad front today with the utilities again stepping into the leadership of the corporate classes.

While the United States government list was comparatively steady, the activity in this department slackened somewhat and several of the treasury loans showed fractional losses which were generally attributed to weekend profit taking.

Signs of easier money conditions, and the final disposal of the Middle West Utilities company situation, which had been overhanging the market for some time, were given credit for the better tone which came into the trading yesterday and continued today. At the same time dealers pointed out that numerous issues have been selling at less than receivership prices and that some recovery was only natural.

Among the utilities that moved up from fractions to 2 or more points were American and Foreign Power 5s, most of the American Telephone liens, Cincinnati Gas 4s, Consolidated Gas 5½s, Detroit Edison 4½s, Columbia Gas 5s, International Telephone Debenture 5s, Kansas Gas [illegible], Pacific Gas 5s and a number of others.

Substantial gains were recorded by the railroads, especially the low priced ones that have recently been under pressure. Advances of from 1 to 2 points were shown by some bonds of Baltimore and Ohio, Chicago and Northwestern, Missouri Pacific, Nickel Plate and Frisco. The high grade Atchison 4s and the Chesapeake and Ohio 4½s also climbed a point or more.

Many of the industrials improved, including loans of Armour and Co., Chile Copper Dodge Bros., and Goodyear.

The foreign section was firm, especially the Germans, Japanese, British, French, Italian and some of the South Americans.

INFLATE MONEY FOR EVERYBODY, BABSON URGES

Distribute Funds to All, Not Only to Veterans, He Advises

Babson Park, Fla. — The real reason why proposed bonus legislation has been so strongly agitated is not the desire to help the veterans, but an overwhelming desire in certain parts of the country for inflation. Congressmen no longer feel obliged to vote for the bonus in order to help the veterans; but they do feel a terrific pressure from the farming groups and others to find some way to make money cheaper and more plentiful. The appeal in behalf of the veterans as such reached its peak at the last Legion Convention and has since subsided. In fact, there is a feeling against Congressmen who incline toward giving any more favors to the veterans at the expense of the public.

So far the various campaigns to give out more money to enable people to buy more goods seem to have failed. Apparently there is enough money in circulation for all needs. The difficulty is not lack of currency, but rather a lack of confidence which greatly retards the normal circulation of money. As money has been put out by various agencies it has been hoarded by individuals, corporations, and banks, and has not been spent to any extent. Some groups feel, however, that these efforts have been too indirect to accomplish the result. They want direct inflation. Hence, whether the veterans' bonus passes Congress or not, the general movement toward making money cheaper will continue.

Seek Cheaper Dollar

There is a fast growing movement for Congress to do something to make the dollar cheaper so it will be easier for those who owe money to pay their bills. There is a special desire to make the farmers' dollar cheaper. The simplest way to do this and to help all others in debt would, of course, be to depreciate the currency. This could indirectly be done in various ways, some of which are now in operation; but the quickest and simplest way would be direct inflation by the issuing of a large amount of paper currency. Every conservative Secretary of the Treasury since Alexander Hamilton has fought against such inflation and it is natural that the present Administration should now oppose that movement. The conservatives fear not so much starting a little inflation (which might be a good thing), but they fear that once started it could not be stopped.

It seems too bad to cheapen the American dollar, as this is about the only thing left that still reains its value. I, therefore, hate to see the dollar tampered with. Moreover, the country will be no richer if $2,000,000,000 of paper currency should be distributed. In the case of banks and other institutions whose assets and liabilities are about equal, it would make little difference. The real struggle is between debtors and creditors. Any benefits from cheapening the dollar would accrue to the debtors; but in each case there would be a correspondingly heavy, though invisible, tax on creditors. If, however, this movement would raise the commodity prices and thaw out credits, both creditors and debtors might be better off in the end, providing that the inflation could later be brought under control.

Inflate For Everybody

If it is necessary to make the dollar cheaper, why not do it in a way fair to all? Instead of giving $2,000,000,000 in greenbacks to the veterans, why not distribute it to the 40,000,000 voters? These are all stockholders of the United States, and this money could be issued as sort of a stock dividend." This could easily be done by giving every voter on November 4 a certificate entitling him or her to $50. in currency. Moreover, it would have a much wider effect on business than giving $2,000,000,000 to a limited class, namely, the veterans. Already tremendous sums are being spent for our ex-soldiers, and while no one begrudges them their just due for great services rendered, everyone feels that there is a limit to what all must sacrifice for the benefit of the few.

Assuming that this $2,000,000,000 in new currency were given to everybody it could later be retired by a sinking fund, and in addition there is a sufficient stock of gold to back it with more than 40 per cent reserve requirements. The fiscal arrangements, however, would have to be such as to postpone the retirement of this currency to a distant date in order not to further burden the Treasury at this time, and not to interfere with balancing of the budget during the coming fiscal year. This plan would be fair and would accomplish the real purpose desired, and in addition would get a great vote out.

General business as measured by the Babsonchart is now 55 per cent below the normal X-Y Line, compared with 54 per cent a month ago, even with adjustments for usual seasonal movements.

Washington — The photo-electric cell has been called into use in lighting airway beacons. The Aeronautics branch of the U. S. department of commerce has developed a device incorporating the cell which will turn on these beacons automatically when it gets dark. The cell will start the lights when visibility diminishes to an extent equalling dusk.

Good Automobile Business May Mean Depression End

BY ALLARD SMITH
Executive Vice President the Union Trust Co., Cleveland, Ohio

Automobile makers are preparing to make a tremendous drive for spring sales of new cars, particularly in the lower price classes. This drive will directly affect the resumption of business activity and the lessening of unemployment to the degree in which it is successful.

There is sound business logic behind this intensive effort for new car sales. There never has been a time since automobiles were built when so many people needed new cars as right now. The streets are filled with old cars, many of which are little more than junk. Thousands of cars are still in use which simply cannot last the year through. The average number of miles of unused transportation left in the cars in use is lower than ever before.

In 1930 there were approximately 26,523,779 motor vehicles in use. Average life has been estimated at seven years, so that it might be expected that some three and a half million would disappear before another year. In 1931 output fell to about 2,500,000 and the annual rate of production for the first three months of 1932 has been about 1,500,000, indicating an accumulating deferred demand.

Many who could have bought have put it off because they were worried about the outlook. During the last few weeks, however, business has been much stabilized, through the operations of the government relief program including the return to circulation of many millions in hoarded money. There is no longer so much reason for those who can buy to hesitate to commit themselves, and great values are being offered.

Who's News Today

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON

New York—(CPA)—Foreign bond expefts, meeting in Washington by invitation of the state department, have in hand the protection of an American stake of approximately $8,800,000,000 in dollar bonds alone. No estimate can be made of the vast additional holdings of currency bonds. The conference will attempt to draft a program to protect bond holders. Although touched lightly in the headlines, the meeting looms as possibly one of the most interesting inquiries of an exciting year. Here is it's partial personnel:

George Rublee.—international lawyer, with headquarters in Washington. Contributed to La Follette's 1916 campaign and senate thereafter refused confirmation for federal trade commission appointment by Woodrow Wilson, Mr. Rublee's intimate friend. Liberal and conciliatory ally of Dwight W. Morrow in settling Mexican oil controversy. Harvard Law school. Practice in Chicago and New York.

Thomas Nelson Perkins.—prominent in Massachusetts law practice for 38 years. President of Boston & Maine railroad. Once captain of the Harvard crew. Former president of interpretations tribunal of the world war reparations commission.

Charles P. Howland. — widely known New York lawyer, being perhaps the only "research specialist in government" in the world. Yale gave him this job in 1927. Harvard law and Harvard M. A. Was counsel of emergency fleet corporation in 1917.

Professor Edwin W. Kemmerer—world famous "money doctor," of Princeton. Has diagnosed sick currencies everywhere. Cornell, Ph. D.

Alanson B. Houghton. — Glass manufacturer who became a diplomat; former ambassador to Germany and Great Britain. Famous as one of the most studious, tactful and independent of foreign envoys. Harvard.

H. Parker Willis.—Tireless free lance in high finance; prolific writer and at times challenging critic in the money marts. Western Reserve and University of Chicago.

It is noted with interest that the state department carefully emphasized the fact that none of the conferees was a banker.

When the elder Sothern played "Our Country Cousin," it was the quaint American, jolly and impetuous, who stood out against the background of British reserve. The pilgrims society of Great Britain, dining Andrew Mellon, finds the roles reversed. It is the rotund and rollicking Earl of Derby who makes all the jolly quips, and the lean and abstemious Mr. Mellon who clings to the proprieties and the safe exactitudes of a typewritten speech.

Selling his ancestral estates, and some of his race horses, his lordship recently has been lending a hand in booming British trade, like the Prince of Wales, who also attended the pilgrims' dinner and is one of the leaders in the imperial drive toward high pressure salesmanship. Some more reverse English on the old Sothern drama, with the shift in the money reserves.

The Earl of Derby was largely responsible for socking hard hats on thousands of innocent American skulls. He calls them "Billycocks," and says we should either call them that or "derbies." At any rate, when he comes to the Kentucky derby, everybody starts wearing them. Genial and likeable, Lord Derby is a great favorite in America, and racing fans mourn as his great Stanley house stables are cut down. He now has only forty horses left and it costs $3,250 a year to maintain each of them. However, in 50 years of racing he has taken in $2,500,000 in stakes. He never bets.

Miss Virginia C. Gildersleeve, dean of Barnard college, is a somewhat old-fashioned educator who doesn't believe it is the function of colleges to turn out veterinaries, master plumbers and chiropractors. She is somewhat of a ultural fundamentalist who can scan Greek verse and who believes the humanities are still worth treasuring. Returning from a holiday in Europe, she repeats her previous condemnation of prohibition. She believes that civilized people, rather than laws, will make a civilized world—something she has been saying during all her 21 years as dean of Barnard.

She is the daughter of Judge Henry Alger Gildersleeve, of New York. She matriculated at Barnard when the college was housed in an old brownstone mansion in Madison-ave. 35 years ago. First instructor in English, she became dean in 1911.

NORTHWEST SETS UP DEFENSE FOR HOPPER INVASION

Agriculturists Claim Millions of Insects Now in Egg Stage

Minneapolis —(AP)— Farmers of the northwest prairies already have started to erect defenses for an expected return engagement of a devastating grasshopper army next summer.

Agriculturists predict that millions of the strong-winged insects—even more than the hordes which made the 1931 visitation one of the most disastrous in history—are now in the egg stage and will make their appearance as spring turns into summer.

"The number of eggs laid in the soil last summer and fall in certain districts is alarming," says Dr. A. G. Ruggles, Minnesota entomologist. "In some areas as many as 180 egg pods have been found per square foot.

"This means that from 100 to 9,000 young grasshoppers will be boiling out of the ground per square foot in May and June. Roadsides, ditch banks, edges of fields and pastures are the most thickly infested areas."

Out of last year's devastation came intensified study by county agents, agricultural colleges and workaday farmers as to the habits and possible means of control of the hoppers.

As a result the northwest will not be caught unprepared again this year.

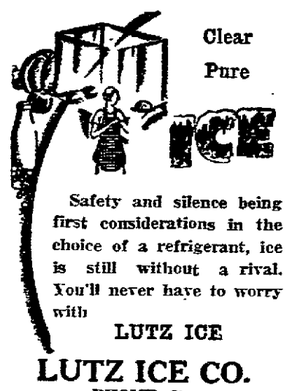

Tons and tons of poison bran mash, made attractive by including molasses in the mixture, will be offered to the hungry insects in lieu of less tasteful but more valuable grain.

This fare, prescribed by entomolocan be spread over the grasshoppers' paths at a cost of about 30 cents an acre, and it probably will constitute man's chief implement of battle.
